

More On Introductory Techniques

1. Definition: Explain a term that is central to the thesis. This may be a dictionary definition or the writer's definition.
2. Rhetorical Question: This question needs to be central to the thesis and answered in the essay.
3. Startling Statement or Relevant Fact: Either one can serve to interest the reader and direct attention to the thesis.
4. Quotation: A quotation from the book works especially well when writing a literary analysis essay. Remember a quotation may be any section of the book, dialogue, description, or narration.
5. Anecdote: A short interesting or humorous incident is another popular introductory technique. With this hook, the writer must be careful to keep it short in relation to the overall length of the essay.
6. History or Background Information: This type of hook gives information that establishes context for the paper.

Never start an essay with a statement such as "In this essay I am going to write about ..."
