Feminisms and Ruralities Barbara Pini, Berit Brandth, Jo Little, 2014-12-18 Feminist concern with difference has rarely extended to rurality even if it is now widely recognized that experiences of inequality depend on intersections of several identities in each individual life This lack of concern may reflect the urban background of the majority of feminist academics or at least their urban positionality once in the academy It may equivalently be that feminists have been influenced by stereotypes of rural women as traditional and reactionary and thus seen them as unlikely exponents of gender equality and an unfruitful focus for scholarly energies Perhaps the problem is a broader one that is reflective of the much documented but still apparent unwillingness of many feminists to recognize and address difference in any of its manifestations Regardless even with the recent interest in intersectionality which has necessarily renewed and reenergized debates in feminism about diversity and inclusion the question of how women are differently positioned because of their non metropolitan location has remained largely overlooked

De Gruyter Handbook of Feminist Political Geography Sydney Calkin, Cordelia Freeman, 2025-11-17 Feminist Political Geography is a relatively new but rapidly growing area of interest in Geographical scholarship It emerged from feminist engagement with the sub discipline of Political Geography which broadly concerns the intersection of politics power and space and it responds to silences and absences in this sub discipline as well as wider silences in Geography scholarship While early scholarship in Feminist Political Geography concentrated on including women's bodies and lives in scholarship its focus has evolved and expanded over time Today Feminist Political Geography scholarship advances broader goals that do not necessarily entail a research focus on women but push us to think about other lives and bodies that are traditionally absent from analysis It challenges us to reimagine and build just futures Like all feminist analysis this body of scholarship is not content with describing or explaining injustices it advances a normative critique of injustice and overtly commits itself to the project of justice In this book the reader will find chapters authored by leading scholars who interrogate key ideas debates and developments with a particular focus on intersectional ideas Structured into four sections that go from the origins of Feminist Political Geography to its futures this handbook is the definitive state of the art survey of this vibrant sub discipline

Education and the Global Rural Barbara Pini, Relebohile Moletsane, Martin Mills, 2017-10-02 This edited collection challenges the urban centric nature of much feminist work on gender and education The context for the book is the radical reconfiguration of rural areas that has occurred in recent decades as a result of globalisation From a range of diverse national contexts including Kenya and South Africa Australia and Canada and the United States and Pakistan authors explore the intersections between masculinity femininity and rurality in education In recognition of the heterogeneity of categories such as rural girl and rural boy they attend to how educational exclusions can be magnified by differences in relation to social locations such as class race or sexuality Similar critical insights are brought to bear as authors examine what it means to be a male or female teacher in rural environments Contributors draw on data ranging from contemporary feature films to historical materials along with detailed ethnographic work and participatory approaches to produce a compelling narrative of the need to understand education as experienced by those who are not part of the urban majority This book was originally published as a special issue of Gender and Education
