Geography 2013 Paper 1 November Gauteng:

The Geography of South Africa Jasper Knight, Christian M. Rogerson, 2018-10-03 This edited collection examines contemporary directions in geographical research on South Africa It encompasses a cross section of selected themes of critical importance not only to the discipline of Geography in South Africa but also of relevance to other areas of the Global South All chapters are original contributions providing a state of the art research baseline on key themes in physical human and environmental geography and in understanding the changing geographical landscapes of modern South Africa These contributions set the scene for an understanding of the relationships between modern South Africa and the wider contemporary world including issues of sustainable development and growth in the Global South

Making Public in a Privatized World David A. McDonald, 2016-02-15 How do we provide effective public services in a deeply neoliberal world In the wake of the widespread failure of privatisation efforts societies in the global south are increasingly seeking progressive ways of recreating the public sector With contributors ranging from cutting edge scholars to activists working in health water and energy provision and with case studies covering a broad spectrum of localities and actors Making Public in a Privatized World uncovers the radically different ways in which public services are being reshaped from the grassroots up From communities holding the state accountable for public health in rural Guatemala to waste pickers in India and decentralized solar electricity initiatives in Africa the essays in this collection offer probing insights into the complex ways in which people are building genuine alternatives to privatization while also illustrating the challenges which communities face in creating public services which are not subordinated to the logic of the market or to the monolithic state entities of the past

Building a Capable State Ian Palmer, Nishendra Moodley, Susan Parnell, 2017-11-15 The sustainable development goals signed in 2016 marked a new phase in global development thinking one which is focused on ecologically and fiscally sustainable human settlements Few countries offer a better testing ground for their attainment than post apartheid South Africa Since the coming to power of the African National Congress the country has undergone a policy making revolution driven by an urgent need to improve access to services for the country's black majority A quarter century on from the fall of apartheid Building a Capable State asks what lessons can be learned from the South African experience The book assesses whether the South African government has succeeded in improving service delivery focusing on the vital sectors of water and sanitation energy roads public transport and housing Emphasizing the often overlooked role of local government institutions and finance the book demonstrates that effective service delivery can have a profound impact on the social structure of emerging economies and must form an integral part of any future development strategy A comprehensive examination of urban service delivery in the global South Building a Capable State is essential reading for students and practitioners across the social sciences public finance and engineering sectors

The Dynamics of Sustainable, Inclusive and Equitable Human Settlements Prudence Khumalo, Taibat Lawanson, Sijekula Mbangwa, 2026-03-04 Human Settlements development is one of the key areas in addressing the myriad challenges facing humanity. Questions of homelessness, resource scarcity, poverty, and inequitable access to adequate and sustainable housing and human settlements continue to be a challenge to many governments and development partners across the globe. The persistence of informal settlements, the unavailability of basic resources, heightened climate change related disasters, and the state's incapacity to address urgent housing needs call for a rethink on the approaches to address these challenges. This Research Topic recognizes that an interdisciplinary approach is required and in reflection of this it brings together research on innovative and alternative building technologies and their reception, especially in poor communities, how social inclusivity can build communities, and how resilience and adaptation will be essential to ensuring equitable access to sustainable housing in the future. The need to create housing and human settlements which recognise the individual and unique needs of inhabitants is core to this Research Topic and the objective is to build a sound resource on all facets of human settlements sustainability. In line with the Sustainable Development Goal 11, the questions of inadequate housing, particularly in the global south, poverty, and slow economic growth, accompanied by increasing climate induced disasters, require a rethink on the approaches taken to realize sustainable cities and communities. This Research Topic brings together papers tackling the following themes: 1 Sustainable human settlements development including planning, design, and governance; 2 Innovative housing technologies including sustainable infrastructure and materials; 3 Smart cities and sustainable energy including ethical implications and equitable access; 4 Partnerships for sustainable human settlements; 5 Inclusive, affordable, and integrated human settlements; 6 Informality, homelessness, and social housing; 7 Climate change settlement resilience and adaptation in the face of a changing environment. We welcome original research articles, review articles, policy and practice reviews, and community case studies from researchers, policy and decision makers, and community organisations.

The Promise of Planning Philip Harrison, Alison Todes, 2024-07-10. The Promise of Planning explores the experience of planning internationally since the global financial crisis, focusing on South Africa. The book is a response to a decade plus in which state led planning has re-emerged as a putative means for achieving developmental goals, as indicated in global initiatives such as the New Urban Agenda, and where planning in South Africa has consolidated in terms of its legal and policy basis. However, the return of planning is happening in an inauspicious context with economic fragilities, technological shifts, political populism, institutional complexities, and more threatening to upturn the new promise of planning. The book provides a careful analytical account of planning in South Africa and how and why its promises have been difficult to achieve. Building on the author's previous book, Planning and Transformation, the book sheds light on planning as an increasingly complex and diverse governmental practice within a perpetually changing world. It can be used as a resource for planners who must make good on the new promise of planning while navigating the risks and threats of the contemporary world, as well as students and faculty interested in international planning debates and the South African case.

Power and Informality in Urban Africa Laura Stark, Annika

Björnsdotter Teppo,2021-12-16 Urban Africa is undergoing a transformation unlike anywhere else in the world as unprecedented numbers of people migrate to rapidly expanding cities But despite the growing body of work on urban Africa the lives of these new city dwellers have received relatively little attention particularly when it comes to crucial issues of power and inequality This interdisciplinary collection brings together contributions from urban studies geography and anthropology to provide new insights into the social and political dynamics of African cities as well as uncovering the causes and consequences of urban inequality Featuring rich new ethnographic research data and case studies drawn from across the continent the collection shows that Africa s new urbanites have adapted to their environs in ways which often defy the assumptions of urban planners By examining the experiences of these urban residents in confronting issues of power and agency the contributors consider how such insights can inform more effective approaches to research city planning and development both in Africa and beyond

The Changing Space Economy of City-Regions Koech Cheruiyot,2017-10-30

This book addresses the South African Space Economy and its stark disparities and dualisms through an assessment of the Gauteng City Region the largest economic agglomeration in the country and on a continent bedevilled by a myriad of development challenges The book s focus on understanding the overall character of Gauteng City Region s Space Economy through data mining analysis and mapping comprehensively supplements the Space Economy literature on the region It covers the disparities exacerbated by an overlay of apartheid planning ideology and top down regional development based on selective encouragement of manufacturing investments in growth points or poles and how implementation of past policies intended to cure these disparities have yielded mixed results This book further offers the Gauteng City Region as a microcosm of the national economy in the form of evident significant placed based variations in the intensity and character of economic structure that on the one hand enjoys massive agglomeration economies while on the other has high levels of poverty and large numbers of people living below the Minimum Living Level This book should appeal to urban studies specialists economists and development studies researchers in the Global South

Emerging Technologies for Smart Cities

Oluwayemi-Oniya Aderibigbe, Trynos Gumbo, Samson Olawale Fadare,2024-08-13 This book examines the use of smart city associated technologies to enhance sustainable transportation planning in cities of both the global north and south focusing specifically on sustainable transportation The authors of the book examine technologies and tools such as UAVs GIS cutting edge information and communication technologies machine learning and big data to assess their potential for reducing traffic redirecting traffic to assigned routes monitoring traffic growth and development in our urban centres with the ultimate aim of reducing congestion commuting time accidents and pollution to promote climate action and a just transition The book offers a comparative study of transport situation and planning in the developed and developing countries focusing on the United States of America Germany and Singapore in the Global North on one hand and South Africa Nigeria and India from the Global South on the other As more and more of the world s population lives in urban centers proactively monitoring and managing car traffic is essential The book will be of interest to academics and researchers in the built environment architecture urban and regional planning construction management quantity surveying geography engineering environmental sciences social sciences public policy design in both the developed and developing countries

Global Urban Agriculture Antoinette M G A WinklerPrins,2017-05-24 There has been growing attention paid to urban agriculture worldwide because of its role in making cities more environmentally sustainable while also contributing to enhanced food access and social justice This edited volume brings together current research and case studies concerning urban agriculture from both the Global North and the Global South Its objective is to help bridge the long standing divide between discussion of urban agriculture in the Global North and the Global South and to demonstrate that today there are greater areas of overlap than there are differences both theoretically and substantively and that research in either area can help inform research in the other The book covers the nature of urban agriculture and how it supports livelihoods provides ecosystem services and community development It also considers urban agriculture and social capital networks and agro biodiversity conservation Concepts such as sustainability resilience adaptation and community and the value of urban agriculture as a recreational resource are explored It also examines quite fundamentally why people farm in the city and how urban agriculture can contribute to more sustainable cities in both the Global North and the Global South
