La Fin De Satan:

Victor Hugo's La Fin de Satan Victor Hugo, Michael Steven Bavar, 1969 Dieu, And, la Fin de Satan, by Victor Hugo
, Satan and His Daughter, the Angel Liberty Victor Hugo, 2019 Victor Hugo spent years in political exile off the coast of Normandy. While there he produced his masterpiece Les Misérables but that wasn't all; he also wrote a book-length poem La Fin de Satan, left unfinished and not published until after his death. Satan and His Daughter, the Angel Liberty, drawn from this larger poem, tells the story of Satan and his daughter, the angel created by God from a feather left behind following his banishment. Hugo details Satan's fall and through a despairing soliloquy reveals his intent on revenge yet desiring God's forgiveness. The angel Liberty meanwhile is presented by Hugo as the embodiment of good working to convince her father to return to Heaven. This new translation by Richard Skinner presents Hugo's verse in a unique prose approach to the poet's poignant work and is accompanied by the Symbolist artist Odilon Redon's haunting illustrations. No adventurous reader will want to miss this beautiful mingling of the epic and familial, religious and political. La fin de Satan Victor Hugo, 1886

The Contemporary Review, 1887 The Beautiful and the Monstrous Amaleena Damlé, Aurélie L'Hostis, 2010 Modern French Identities focuses on the French and Francophone writing of the twentieth and twenty-first centuries whose formal experiments and revisions of genre have combined to create an entirely new set of literary forms. The series publishes studies of individual authors and artists, comparative studies, and interdisciplinary projects. "The" Athenaeum, 1887

Myth and Legend in French Literature Keith Aspley, David Bellos, Peter Sharratt, 1982 Selected Poetry Victor Hugo, 2002. First Published in 2002. Routledge is an imprint of Taylor & Francis, an informa company. Contemporary Review, 1887 The Later Novels of Victor Hugo Kathryn M. Grossman, 2012-03-29. This study places the last three novels of Victor Hugo's maturity, Les Travailleurs de la mer (1866), L'Homme qui rit (1869), and Quatrevingt-treize (1874), within the context of his artistic development after the success of Les Misérables (1862). By situating these historical narratives in relation to each other, to all of Hugo's previous fiction, and to a number of poetic and critical works published in exile and in the initial years of the Third Republic, it illuminates the final structural and thematic shifts from a poetics of harmony to one of transcendence. As in Les Misérables, the disharmony associated with social tumult, apocalyptic vision, and oxymoronic tensions provides an essential component of the later Hugo's Romantic sublime. Instead of merely capitalizing on the runaway success of Les Misérables by recycling its prominent features, however, each novel makes an original contribution to the political and aesthetic trajectory inscribed by the entire oeuvre. Each testifies as well to the wizardry of Hugo's own special effects that contribute to his story-telling genius. Such effects, especially the dizzying spatial optics and manipulation of temporal dimensions, function not as mere playful gimmicks or novelistic flourishes but as strategies for figuring and communicating the ideal, both political and artistic. The unique interplay of poetic and historical discourse in each text reconfigures our disordered experience of the world into something far more coherent: a construction of meaning that strives to change perceptions and to promote social action Allegory Old and New M.
