

Making Good Choices. Essay Example

Making choices can affect any and everything in your life whether it's dealing with your family or just everyday situations. Everyone in life is faced with good and bad choices that can either have a good outcome on your life or it can take a turn for the worst. Yes, everyone wants to make good choices in life. But does that always happen? Nine times out of ten know. Recently, I made a bad choice that affected my life in numerous ways for instance when I got caught shoplifting my parents looked down on me as if I was this thief.

I'm very embarrassed about my actions but there's nothing I can do to erase it I can only make this a learning experience and make better choices next time around. As teenagers were often expected to make the right choices but we never really evaluate the good and bad in anything. We just do things at the moment then look back after it already has affected us and we wish we would have evaluated the negative and the positives of the decisions we have made. Often I like to quote from an unknown source: "A smart man learns from his own mistakes, but a wise man learns from others' mistakes. I believe one does not have to make all the mistakes possible before learning that some choices are better left unchosen. There are some addictions, for example, that require only a short-term exposure to them and you are "hooked" and it becomes extremely hard to free yourself from this physical enslavement. I feel that once a person constantly makes good choices, he then realizes that it just makes sense to stay on that path. I have never known a person who was happy about being a "slave" to a bad habit.

There are so many positive things in life to be experienced, why limit yourself by letting bad life choices hold you back from achieving your full potential? You can never feel really good about doing a bad thing. Have you ever regretted anything? I think we all have. It is hard not to, it seems at times it can be very difficult to know what the right decision is. In life, I believe we all move toward things that make us happy, and away from that which could hurt us or make us sad, I also believe that all people no matter who they are; are entitled to as much happiness and success as they want.

Often it can be difficult if not impossible to make what you think at that moment will be the right choice. One of the biggest factors that will hold people back is that too often than not we are not completely clear on what type of result or outcome we want from a situation. Think about it, if you don't know what kind of result you want it is going to be pretty hard to know what choice is going to be the right one. So what do you do? You get a clear understanding before you make any choice.

Think about its effects in the long term, and short term. Knowing exactly what you want is very powerful. We have all heard the golden rule; do unto others as you would have them do unto you. This is probably one of the mo
