

The King and the Wiseman

A king is the ruler of a country, a leader. A wiseman is very clever and he knows many things. He can do magic and he can read the stars to foretell the future.

A long time ago, in a faraway land, there lived a king. He was a powerful, strong king. He ruled his people fairly, but he was also very strict. Every Thursday, he held an audience. Citizens came to pay their respects. The king asked them questions about the kingdom. This is how he kept in touch with what was happening. One Thursday, some men told him that a wiseman held an audience every Friday and that hundreds of citizens attended - more than came to the king's audience! People loved and respected this wiseman and said that he could foretell the future. The king became jealous and also, furious! The king sent soldiers to bring the wiseman to him. He prepared to hold a public execution. When the wiseman stood in front of the king, the king asked him if he really could foretell the future. The wiseman replied that yes, sometimes, he could. The king smiled, then pointed to the chopping block and remarked that this therefore, would be no surprise! The wiseman replied that it certainly was a surprise as he did not know the exact date of his death. All he knew with absolute certainty was that he would die three days before the king himself. Immediately, the king told the executioner to go and have his lunch. Then he ordered his two best bodyguards to always take the greatest care of the wiseman. The king and the wiseman lived long and happy lives.

Say if the statements are true or false then answer the questions in full sentences:
