GPS systems only have one job to find the location of the aircraft as accurately as possible. Before this technology, the aircraft location on a map would have to be plotted, then the progress of the aircraft's flight continuously updated by hand by the pilot. The task of monitoring of all aspects of the process of flying and navigating an aircraft by the pilot can be called flight management. The advance of GPS technology has brought to the cockpit the ability to plot on a moving map the exact location of the aircraft.

Section 4 Aircraft Documentation This section builds on Section 3 GPS installer. Aircraft that are required to maintain their airworthiness must have documentation that proves that work. This section covers documents types such as the variously Aircraft Equipment List, Weight and Balance document, FAA Form 337 for record major alterations, and the Approved Flight Manual. This section describes what approved data that can be used to alter an aircraft and how that record information be included in the FAA Form 337 is.

Section 5 Aircraft Fundamentals This section is designed to cover the basic of aircraft construction and operations.
