Archaeology and its Discontents John C. Barrett, 2021-03-30 Archaeology and its Discontents examines the state of archaeology today and its development throughout the twentieth century making a powerful case for new approaches Surveying the themes of twentieth century archaeological theory Barrett looks at their successes limitations and failures Seeing more failures and limitations than successes he argues that archaeology has over focused on explaining the human construction of material variability and should instead be more concerned with understanding how human diversity has been constructed Archaeology matters he argues precisely because of the insights it can offer into the development of human diversity The analysis and argument are illustrated throughout by reference to the development of the European Neolithic Arguing both for new approaches and for the importance of archaeology as a discipline Archaeology and its Discontents is for archaeologists at all levels from student to professor and trainee to experienced practitioner

In Search of Pre-Classical Antiquity: Rediscovering Ancient Peoples in Mediterranean Europe (19th and 20th c.), 2016-11-28 The book aims rethinking the cultural history of Mediterranean nationalisms between 19th and 20th centuries by tracing their specific approach to antiquity in the forging of a national past By focusing on how national imaginaries dealt with this topic and how history and archaeology relied on antiquity this collection of essays introduces a comparative approach presenting several cases studies concerning many regions including Spain Italy and Slovenia as well as Albania Greece and Turkey By adopting the perspective of a dialogue among all these Mediterranean political cultures this book breaks significantly new ground because it shifts attention on how Southern Europe nationalisms are an interconnected political and cultural experience directly related to the intellectual examples of Northern Europe but also developing its own particular trends Contributors are i dem Atakuman Filippo Carl Francisco Garcia Alonso Maja Gori Eleni Stefanou Rok Stergar Katia Visconti

Of Odysseys and Oddities Barry Molloy, 2016-08-31 Of Odysseys and Oddities is about scales and modes of interaction in prehistory specifically between societies on both sides of the Aegean and with their nearest neighbors overland to the north and east The 17 contributions reflect on tensions at the core of how we consider interaction in archaeology particularly the motivations and mechanisms leading to social and material encounters or displacements Linked to this are the ways we conceptualize spatial and social entities in past societies scales and how we learn about who was actively engaged in interaction and how and why they were modes The papers provide a broad chronological spatial and material range but taken together they critically address many of the ways that scales and modes of interaction are considered in archaeological discourse Ultimately the intention is to foreground material culture analysis in the development of the arguments presented within this volume informed but not driven by theoretical positions

Celtic from the West 3 John T. Koch, Barry Cunliffe, 2016-09-01 The Celtic languages and groups called Keltoi i e Celts emerge into our written records at the pre Roman Iron Age The impetus for this book is to explore from the perspectives of three disciplines archaeology genetics and linguistics the background in later European prehistory to these developments There is a traditional scenario according to which Celtic speech and the associated group identity came in to being during the Early Iron Age in the north Alpine zone and then rapidly spread across central and western Europe This idea of Celtogenesis remains deeply entrenched in scholarly and popular thought But it has become increasingly difficult to reconcile with recent discoveries pointing towards origins in the deeper past It should no longer be taken for granted that Atlantic Europe during the 2nd and 3rd millennia BC were pre Celtic or even pre Indo European The explorations in Celtic from the West 3 are drawn together in this spirit continuing two earlier volumes in the influential series interested in Mediterranean adaptations during this earliest period of metallurgy As elsewhere the infusion of metallurgy had profound implications as island cultures underwent a series of transformations tied directly or indirectly to it Spanning two millennia these changes are studied in terms of material cultures known as Ozieri Sub Ozieri Filigosa Abealzu Monte Claro and Bell Beaker A more overarching finding from this review is the periodic engagement between these cultures and geographically distant ones Such punctuations of the insular condition had long lasting effects on local expression and some thoughts on how this might contribute to understandings of concepts like identity formation are presented by way of a conclusion This book is a companion volume to The Sardinian Neolithic An Archaeology of the 6th and 5th Millennia BCE by Gary Webster 2019 Making Spaces Into Places Nenad N.
