

Lesson 11: The Volume Formula of a Pyramid and Cone

Student Outcomes

- Students use Cavalieri's principle and the cone cross-section theorem to show that a general pyramid or cone has volume $\frac{1}{3}Bh$, where B is the area of the base, and h is the height by comparing it with a right rectangular pyramid with base area B and height h .

Lesson Notes

The Exploratory Challenge is debriefed in the first discussion. The Exploratory Challenge and Discussion are the springboard for the main points of the lesson: (1) explaining why the formula for finding the volume of a cone or pyramid includes multiplying by one-third and (2) applying knowledge of the cone cross-section theorem and Cavalieri's principle from previous lessons to show why a general pyramid or cone has volume $\frac{1}{3}(\text{area of base})(\text{height})$. Provide manipulatives to students, three congruent pyramids and six congruent pyramids, to explore the volume formulas in a hands-on manner; that is, attempt to construct a cube from three congruent pyramids or six congruent pyramids, such as in the image below.
