1. A change in an Accounting Policy should be made only –
 - (a) If the adoption of a different accounting policy is required by Statute, or
 - (b) For compliance with an Accounting Standard, or
 - (c) If it is considered that the change would result in a more appropriate presentation of the Financial Statements of the enterprise.
2. Disclosure Requirements of Changes in Accounting Policies:
 - (a) Disclosure: Any change in an accounting policy, which has a material effect should be disclosed.
 - (b) Current Effect of Change: The impact of, and the adjustments resulting from such change, if material, should be shown in the Financial Statements of the period in which such change is made, to reflect the effect of such change. Where the effect of such change is not ascertainable, wholly or in part, the fact should be indicated.
 - (c) Future Effect of Change: If a change is made in the accounting policies which has no material effect on the Financial Statements for the current period but which is reasonably expected to have a material effect in later periods, the fact of such change should be appropriately disclosed in the period in which the change is adopted.
3. Computations, as per AS – 5.

Sustainable Energy Solutions in Agriculture Jochen Bundschuh, Guangnan Chen, 2014-03-07 Sustainability in agriculture and associated primary industries which are both energy intensive is crucial for the development of any country. Increasing scarcity and resulting high fossil fuel prices combined with the need to significantly reduce greenhouse gas emissions make the improvement of energy efficient farming and increased use of renewable energy essential. This book provides a technological and scientific endeavor to assist society and farming communities in different regions and scales to improve their productivity and sustainability. To fulfill future needs of a modern sustainable agriculture, this book addresses highly actual topics providing innovative, effective, and more sustainable solutions for agriculture by using sustainable, environmentally friendly renewable energy sources and modern energy efficient cost-improved technologies. The book highlights new areas of research and further R & D needs. It helps to improve food security for the rapidly growing world population and to reduce carbon dioxide emissions from fossil fuel use in agriculture, which presently contributes 22% of the global carbon dioxide emissions. This book provides a source of information, stimuli, and incentives for what and how new and energy efficient technologies can be applied as effective tools and solutions in agricultural production to satisfy the continually increasing demand for food and fibre in an economically sustainable way while contributing to global climate change mitigation. It will be useful and inspiring to decision makers working in different authorities, professionals, agricultural engineers, researchers, and students concerned with agriculture and related primary industries, sustainable energy development, and climate change mitigation projects.

Transforming Rural Communities in China and Beyond Ying Zhu, Hong Lan, David A. Ness, Ke Xing, Kris Schneider, Seung-Hee Lee, Jing Ge, 2014-11-01 This book represents one of the first attempts by a multidisciplinary research team encompassing the social sciences, business, architecture, and planning, engineering, and finance, and economics to help rural communities discover sustainable and self-reliant paths to development and transformation. The opening chapter outlines the background of the research, its importance in the context of China and other countries, the rationale for choosing the case study communities in rural China, and the composition of the research team. Chapter 2 explores key issues in the role of social entrepreneurship and leadership in rural community development. Chapter 3 analyses a green platform for a pilot transaction of China forest carbon sinks led by the Huadong Forestry Exchange. The fourth chapter examines carbon trade, forestry land rights, and the livelihoods of farmers in rural Chinese communities. Chapter 5 explores alternative energy development in rural Chinese communities where the poor are often disproportionately dependent on fuel wood and solid biomass, causing environmental degradation, reduced productivity, and the decline of income-generating opportunities. Chapter 6 examines and tests the proposition that stronger communities will result from connected, up-holistic, synergistic, and inclusive planning of services and supporting infrastructure. Chapter 7 analyzes information and communications technology (ICT)-based service innovations for supporting rural community enterprises Chapter 8 highlights key elements of stronger rural communities drawing together the themes and proposals of preceding chapters and constructing an integrated model The authors demonstrate that interconnected community enterprises based on clean forest products forest carbon and ecotourism can be underpinned by local infrastructure enterprises such as renewable energy water waste management ICT and transport and financial mechanisms like carbon finance all involving skills development leadership and social entrepreneurship coupled with corporate and investment partnerships Such interconnected approaches are expected to generate increased employment and prosperity improve social livelihoods and benefit the environment

economy is widely seen as a potential solution to current global economic and environmental crises and a potential mechanism by which sustainable development might be achieved in practice Considerable investments are now being made into the development of green technology renewable energy biodiversity conservation resource efficiency recycling of materials and green infrastructure This textbook provides a comprehensive introduction to the green economy using a strongly interdisciplinary approach based on environmental science rather than treating it as a sub set of economics The scientific principles of sustainability are presented which provide the foundations of the green economy with a particular focus on systems based approaches Examples of real world case studies are used to illustrate how the green economy can be achieved in practice In this way the authors provide a thorough overview of both the principles and practice of the green economy drawing from a wide range of disciplines including ecology geography social science psychology sustainability science environmental science law and economics The emphasis is on presenting results of the latest research derived from leading scientific journals Rather than focusing on a single definition of what constitutes a green economy the book introduces readers to the diversity of opinion that exists and engages them in what is an active on going debate This reflects the fact that many aspects of the green economy and sustainable development more generally are currently contested In particular the book will help readers to strengthen their ability to critically evaluate the evidence for and against the views presented and to actively contribute to the future development of the green economy

Rethinking Public Strategy Sean Lusk,Nick Birks,2014-07-23 Strategy is vital to effective and efficient public service delivery as well as successful governance and leadership This new text provides a concise yet systematic overview of the achievements downfalls and complexities of public strategy in today s globalized and often market driven world It describes the place of strategy in civic societies whose citizens are more interconnected and vocal than ever It shows that successful strategic planning goes well beyond problem solving to developing adaptable plans that can evolve as requirements and circumstances change And it explains why muddling through simply won t work Emphasizing the importance of applying a variety of techniques to the process of strategy creation Rethinking Public Strategy reassesses the key factors that can deliver significant improvements in public services and build public value It looks at why public strategy is distinctive as well as the principles it has in common with the corporate domain This text includes numerous case studies from around the globe from South Africa to Singapore the USA to Germany and from China to the Czech Republic that ground the exposition in real experience Based on state of the art research by two expert practitioners in the field it offers an essential guide to the art of strategy in the contemporary public sector and encourages readers to evaluate critically the various approaches to strategy
