The Opening Statement of the Prosecution in International Criminal Trials Sofia Stolk, 2021-04-20 This book addresses the discursive importance of the prosecution's opening statement before an international criminal tribunal. Opening statements are considered to be largely irrelevant to the official legal proceedings but are simultaneously deployed to frame important historical events. They are widely cited in international media as well as academic texts yet have been ignored by legal scholars as objects of study in their own right. This book aims to remedy this neglect by analysing the narrative that is articulated in the opening statements of different prosecutors at different tribunals in different times. It takes an interdisciplinary approach and looks at the meaning of the opening narrative beyond its function in the legal process in a strict sense, discussing the ways in which the trial is situated in time and space and how it portrays the main characters. It shows how perpetrators and victims' places and histories are juridified in a narrative that whilst purporting to legitimise the trial, the tribunal and international criminal law itself is beset with tensions and contradictions. Providing an original perspective on the operation of international criminal law, this book will be of considerable interest to those working in this area as well as those with relevant interests in International Transnational Law, more generally Critical Legal Studies, Law and Literature, Socio-Legal Studies, Law and Geography and International Relations.

Economic crises in history teaching Council of Europe, 2025-10-01 How can history education equip students to understand and confront the economic crises of yesterday and tomorrow? Since the beginning of the 21st century, the economic consequences of the debt crises of 2007 and 2008, the Covid-19 pandemic and of Russia's war of aggression against Ukraine have continuously challenged the livelihood of many families in Europe and around the world. Understanding economic crises from a historical perspective enables students to better respond to present and future experiences of such crises. The mission of the Observatory on History Teaching in Europe (OHTE) is to provide a clear picture of the state of history teaching in its member states. This is done through OHTE general reports on the state of history teaching in Europe and OHTE thematic reports which explore particular areas of interest and how they are treated in history lessons. The second thematic report of the OHTE investigates the extent and the ways in which learners are being prepared to understand and cope with such crises through history education in the public schooling systems of OHTE's 17 member states. It combines curriculum and textbook analysis with an explorative study of teachers' experiences and summarises its most significant conclusions into 10 key findings listed in the introductory chapter.

Graffiti in Antiquity Peter Keegan, 2014-10-10 Ancient graffiti, hundreds of thousands of informal, ephemeral texts spanning millennia, offer a patchwork of fragmentary conversations in a variety of languages spread across the Mediterranean world. Cut, painted, inked or traced in charcoal, the surviving graffiti present a layer of lived experience in the ancient world unavailable from other sources. Graffiti in Antiquity reveals how and why the inhabitants of Greece and Rome, men and women, free and enslaved, formulated written and visual messages about themselves and the world.

around them as graffiti The sources drawn from 800 BCE to 600 CE are examined both within their individual historical cultural and archaeological contexts and thematically allowing for an exploration of social identity in the urban society of the ancient world An analysis of one of the most lively and engaged forms of personal communication and protest Graffiti in Antiquity introduces a new way of reading sociocultural relationships among ordinary people living in the ancient world
