Spatial Analysis: The article may employ spatial analysis techniques to examine how power structures are distributed across landscapes. This could involve mapping, GIS (Geographic Information Systems), and other tools to visualize power relationships.

Political Geography: Discussions in the article may pertain to political geography, focusing on how political institutions, boundaries, and decisions affect the physical and social landscapes. This can involve the examination of national borders, geopolitics, and the spatial distribution of political power.

Social and Cultural Geographies: Human geography often delves into social and cultural aspects. The article might explore how power influences and is influenced by cultural and social practices, identities, and spaces.

Economic Geographies: Economic aspects of power, including wealth distribution, resource access, and economic structures within specific landscapes, could be a key focus.

Historical Perspectives: Understanding the historical context and the evolution of power structures within specific landscapes is often vital in human geography. The article may provide historical insights into how power relations have shaped landscapes over time.

Urban and Rural Dynamics: A discussion of how power plays out differently in urban and rural landscapes is common. Urbanization, migration, and the impact of these trends on power structures may be explored.

Environmental and Sustainability Issues: The article might address how power influences environmental policies, resource management, and sustainability efforts within landscapes.

Community and Identity: The concept of place and its influence on community and identity may be discussed. How power dynamics affect the attachment of individuals and groups to specific landscapes may be explored.
