Hurricane Season Joe Holley, 2018-05-01 An inside look at the 2017 Houston Astros championship season focusing on the epic seven game World Series the front office decisions that built a winning team and the resilience of the city in the wake of Hurricane Harvey On November 1 2017 the Houston Astros defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers in an epic seven game battle to become 2017 World Series champs For the Astros the combination of a magnificently played series a 101 victory season and the devastation Hurricane Harvey brought to their city was so incredible it might give Hollywood screenwriters pause The nation's fourth largest city still reeling in the wake of disaster was smiling again The Astros first ever World Series victory is a great baseball story but it's also the story of a major American city a city and a state that the rest of the nation doesn't always love or understand becoming a sentimental favorite because of its grace and good will in response to the largest natural disaster in American history The Astros miracle season is also the fascinating tale of a thoroughly modern team Constructed by NASA inspired analytics the team's data driven system took the game to a more sophisticated level than the so called Moneyball approach The team's new owner Jim Crane bought into the system and was willing to endure humiliating seasons in the baseball wilderness with the hope shared by few initially that success comes to those who wait And he was right But no data crunching could take credit for a team of likeable refreshingly good natured young men who wore Houston Strong patches on their jerseys and meant it guys like shortstop Carlos Correa who kept a photo in his locker of a Houston woman trudging through fetid water up to her knees The Astros foundation included George Springer a powerful slugger and rangy outfielder third baseman Alex Bregman whose defensive play and clutch hitting were crucial in the series and of course the stubby and tenacious second baseman Jose Altuve the heart and soul of the team Hurricane Season is Houston Chronicle columnist Joe Holley's moving account of this extraordinary team and the extraordinary circumstances of their championship

Urban Policy in Latin America Michael Cohen, Maria Carrizosa, Margarita Gutman, 2019-07-26 This book evaluates the impact of 20 years of urban policies in six Latin American countries Argentina Brazil Chile Colombia Ecuador and Mexico It argues that evaluating the fulfillment of past commitments is essential for framing and meeting the new commitments that were taken in Habitat III over the next 20 years Taken as a whole the book provides a critical assessment of the economic social and environmental consequences of urban interventions during Habitat II The country level chapters have been written by recognized experts in urban issues with first hand knowledge of the Habitat process and deep familiarity with the problems statistics actors and political contexts of their nations The latter part of the volume considers wider topics such as the Habitat Commitment Index the New Urban Agenda and the regional and global scale lessons that can be extracted from this group of countries Urban Policy in Latin America will be of interest to advanced students researchers and policymakers across development economics urban studies and Latin American studies

Powerless Diana Hernández,Jennifer Laird,2025-04-08 Energy serves as the lifeblood of our daily experiences It permeates virtually every aspect of our existence facilitating nourishment safety and productivity When affordability threatens energy s availability a family s living situation can become untenable too cold too hot too dark and too often unhealthy and unsafe In Powerless sociologists Diana Hernández and Jennifer Laird reveal the hidden hardship of energy insecurity the inability to adequately meet household energy needs Approximately one in ten households in the U S are energy insecure and four in ten are at risk for energy insecurity These statistics alone do not convey the acute pain of utility shutoffs or the relentless toll of chronic energy hardships marked by difficult choices and harsh living conditions Drawing on survey data and interviews with one hundred energy insecure individuals and families Hernández and Laird detail the experience of energy insecurity Individuals and families suffering from energy insecurity endure economic hardships such as difficulty paying utility bills utility debt and disconnection from utility services They also struggle with physical challenges such as poor housing conditions and poor or dysfunctional heating and cooling systems They are often forced to make difficult choices about what bills to pay These decisions are sometimes referred to as heat or eat choices as families cannot afford to pay for heating and food at the same time Energy insecure individuals and families employ a variety of strategies to keep energy costs down to avoid having to make these hard choices This includes deliberate underconsumption of energy enduring physical discomfort and using dangerous alternatives such as open flames ovens or space heaters to try to maintain a comfortable temperature in their home To be energy insecure is to suffer Despite the heavy toll of energy insecurity most people confront these difficulties behind closed doors believing it is a private matter Thus the enormous social crisis of energy insecurity goes unnoticed Hernández and Laird argue that household energy is a basic human right and detail policies and practices that would expand access to consistent safe clean and affordable energy Their proposals include improving the current energy safety net which is limited and often does not serve the most energy insecure due to stringent program requirements and administrative burdens They also suggest redesigning rates to accommodate income promoting enrollment and expansion of discount programs reforming utility disconnection policies improving energy literacy and ensuring an equitable shift to renewable energy resources Powerless creates a comprehensive picture of the complex social and environmental issue of energy insecurity and shows how energy equity is not just an aspiration but an achievable reality The Complete Films of Greta Garbo Michael Conway, Dion McGregor, Mark Ricci, 1991 Proceedings of the Ohio State Academy of Science Ohio Academy of Science, 1915 Monthly Bulletin Philippines.
