2. How many genetically different gametes can be produced from a diploid cell with four chromosomes pairs? Describe your answer.

There are 16 genetically different gametes that can be produced because in a diploid cell there are four chromosome pairs. Each pair can be passed on to a gamete in two ways (one or the other chromosome in the pair) or 16 genetically different gametes.

3. Although you will learn a classification of mutations this evening, you may notice that some mutations cause the loss of function of a protein. For example, both colour and eye colour may occur. How do these two mutations together?

These mutations are linked together and occur on the same chromosome. Therefore, they are inherited together as well. And a mutation in one gene may cause other mutations in other genes. These mutations may be inherited together.

4. Describe the alignment of chromosomes during prophase I, write the equations:

Chromosomes I and II are aligned and chromosomes III and IV are aligned. This is a diploid cell because it has two sets of chromosomes. Each set has four chromosomes.
