

Concepts: Patterns in Triangles

Many more mathematical relationships are produced by the placement of tangents to the circles, and will be discussed in the next lesson. For now, we will focus on the patterns in these triangles.

Students are asked to draw the three circles and the three tangents. They are then asked to draw the three triangles and label the sides and angles. They are then asked to measure the angles and sides of the triangles. They are then asked to compare the triangles and see if they are similar. They are then asked to explain why the triangles are similar.

1. A triangle is formed by the tangents to the three circles. What are the angles of this triangle? What are the side lengths of this triangle? What are the angles of the triangle formed by the tangents to the three circles? What are the side lengths of this triangle?

a. What is the measure of the angles of this triangle?

b. What is the measure of the sides of this triangle?

c. What are the angles of the triangle formed by the tangents to the three circles?

2. Reflective lines create a triangle with a right angle. What are the angles of this triangle? What are the side lengths of this triangle? What are the angles of the triangle formed by the tangents to the three circles? What are the side lengths of this triangle?

a. What are the angles of the triangle formed by the tangents to the three circles?
