FITNESSGRAM® Testing

No matter what testing is performed your major concern should be that the testing experience be positive and educational. Children should learn about their personal fitness and how to develop a lifestyle that maintains good health without being turned off by the testing experience.

The FITNESSGRAM® (1999) is a health-related fitness test. It is a comprehensive program promoted by the American Fitness Alliance that includes Physical Best materials from SHAPE and the FITNESSGRAM®/ACTIVITYGRAM® test software from the Aerobic Institute.

The FITNESSGRAM® consists of a battery of tests that allows teachers to select test items if they choose to develop a customized design. The test items in the FITNESSGRAM® are briefly described below. Where more than one item is offered, teachers have the choice of selecting the test they desire to use. A comprehensive test manual, related materials and software can be ordered from the American Fitness Alliance, P.O. Box 5076, Champaign, IL 61825-5076 or log onto www.HumanKinetics.com

*Test Administered to All students in Grades: 5,7,9

*When is the test battery administered (What time of year)? Spring between feb and may

*What do you do with the results? Reported to California dep of education (PFT contractor)

*How can they be submitted (in what form)? Hand data entry, scannable forms, fitness gram software, outside vendor contractor

1. Aerobic Capacity: (Select One)

- The PACER (Progressive Aerobic Cardiovascular Endurance Run)

This is a more acceptable alternative to the mile, as it involves a 20-meter shuttle run and can be performed indoors. The test is progressive, it begins at a level that all youngsters can perform and gradually increases in difficulty. The objective of the PACER is to run back and forth a 20-meter distance within a specified time that gradually gets shorter. The 20-meter distance is not intimidating to youngsters (compared to the mile) and avoids the problem of trying to teach young children to pace themselves rather than running all-out and fatiguing rapidly. Additionally, the least fit youngsters drops out of the PACER first rather than being the last person left on the track.
