

Five Dysfunctions of a Team

ACTIVITY GUIDE

Your 6 Month Information Guide to Increasing Team Effectiveness

Overview

- 5 The pursuit of individual goals and personal status erodes the focus on collective success.
- 4 The need to avoid interpersonal discomfort prevents team members from holding one another accountable.
- 3 The lack of clarity or buy-in prevents team members from making decisions they will stick to.
- 2 The desire to preserve artificial harmony stifles the occurrence of productive ideological conflict.
- 1 The fear of being vulnerable with team members prevents the building of trust within the team.

Launch the Program

- Host a launch meeting & schedule a time to hold each month's team effectiveness meeting.
- Identify which Five Dysfunctions impact your team most.
- Decide what your team would like to accomplish by completing the Five Dysfunctions of a Team effectiveness activity.
- All team members should complete the Five Dysfunctions of a Team Personality Assessment.

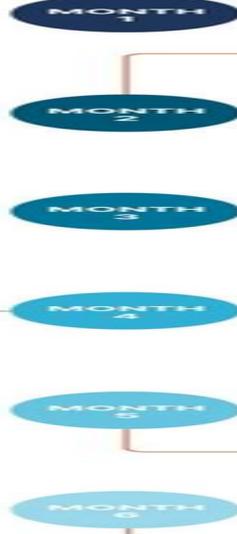

All team members should read this.

Increase Accountability

- Assure that everyone understands what he or she is expected to do and how their work contributes to the team's success.
 - At every meeting or key dialogue, identify what the team will do, who is responsible for it, and who is responsible to ensure the ball does not drop.
 - Example:
 - Use 3-5 Feedback Loops to go around the team by member share the
 - 3 things going well
 - 3 things not going well
 - 1 thing he/she needs help.
- See page 212 for more on accountability.

Pay Attention to Results

- Publish results for those throughout the company to see. One great way to do this is to use a social platform.
 - Prioritize team results over level of departmental results.
 - Reward team members based on results.
- See page 216 for more on achieving accountability.

These dysfunctions can be mistaken for five distinct issues that can be addressed in isolation. However, they are interconnected and making susceptibility to even one of the dysfunctions can impact the success of the team.

— Patrick Lencioni

Build Trust

- Conduct a personal history session now & at the beginning of each team effectiveness meeting.
 - Example:
 - Fact 1: I own shares of Facebook & I fictional story share with the group & the group guesses which fact is fact & which is fiction.
- See page 202 for more on building trust.

Overcome Fear of Conflict

- Each team member completes at minimum, one behavioral assessment: the values, attributes, and behaviors creates stronger clarity around conflict styles.
 - Set conflict norms. Each person should define unacceptable behaviors that will create constructive conflict.
 - Example:
 - Stay focused on the problem, not the person.
 - Assign an individual to be a "miner" for conflict. This person will be responsible for bringing sensitive issues to the surface.
- See page 202 for more on overcoming fear of conflict.

Achieve Commitment

- Leaders are the drivers of commitment.
 - After meetings or key decisions, document what has been accomplished or what will be done to accomplish objectives. This will create clarity that should be involved.
 - Use deadlines to drive change and the deadlines to direct rewards.
 - When making big decisions, conduct a scenario analysis. This allows the team to see the pros and cons of a decision is not as bad. Removing this fear allows teams to commit to a course of action.
 - Pare down options.
