

Frequency Tables, Histograms, & Line Plots

Objective:

Students will collect and organize data to create their own histogram, bar graph, and line plot. They will compare the features of a histogram and bar graph to understand how each displays data. Using their graphs, students will analyze the data to determine the mean, median, mode, and range, building both their graphing and statistical reasoning skills.

Directions:

Have students complete the worksheet, paying close attention to how each graph should be drawn. Remind them to refer to Page 1, which includes helpful notes and examples to guide them as they work through the activity.

1b. Now take your frequency table and make a histogram. Remember to label the x-and-y- axis and give your graph a title.

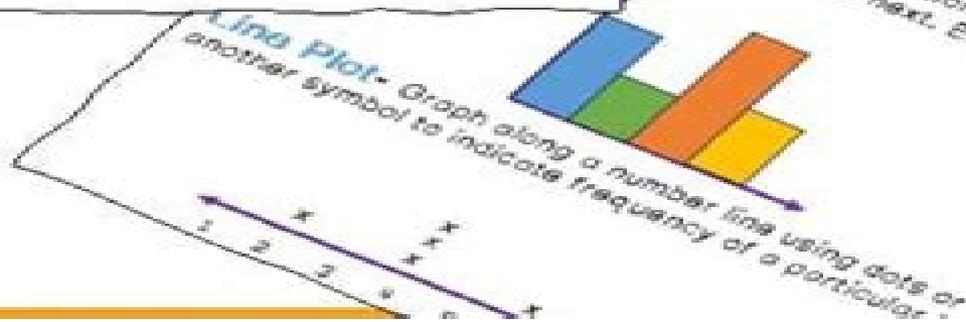

2. Analyze the data from the frequency table and histogram:
a. What is the range of data?
b. What age group is most likely to play Minecraft? How do you know?

VOCABULARY
