

Writing a Formal Lab Report

Note: This handout provides guidelines for writing a formal, typed laboratory report for a Biology, Chemistry, Natural Science, or Physics class. Routine lab “write-ups” such as those used in a laboratory notebook may follow a similar format and style, but they are usually written in pen during the lab with no editing afterwards. For more specific guidelines on formatting and recording results in laboratory notebooks, please see your instructor. Students should also remember that each instructor will have slightly different requirements. If an instructor gives guidelines that differ from the ones provided here, please follow them; this handout should be used only as a general reference to help students learn the style of scientific writing.

General Tips

- Be concise. In scientific writing, it is very important to say as much as is needed while using as few words as possible. Lab reports should be thorough, but repetition should be avoided. The entire report should be clear and straightforward.
- Write in the third person. Avoid using the words “I” or “we” when referring to the experimental procedure. For example, instead of “I boiled 50 mL of water for 10 minutes,” the report should read, “50 mL of water was boiled for 10 minutes.” This can be a bit difficult to get used to, so it is important to pay close attention to the wording in the report.
- Use correct verb tenses. Many students become confused when trying to decide whether to use past or present tense in their reports. The general rules for verb tenses are as follows:
 - The experimental procedure has already been conducted, so use the past tense of the verb when referring to it:
 Ex: The purpose of the experiment was ...
 The compound was weighed to 5 g ...
 - The report, equipment, and theory still exist, so use the present tense of the verb for them:
 Ex: The purpose of this report is ... Bunsen burners are used ...
- Be prepared for the lab. Before coming to the lab session, read the procedure in the lab manual thoroughly. Write down a purpose, hypothesis, and a general plan for the procedure you will follow and bring them to the lab with you. If you understand what you will be doing before beginning, it will be much easier to take relevant notes during the lab and to see what you will need to include in the report afterwards.
- Take good lab notes. When conducting the lab, it is important to write down all the results that will be needed for the report as well as all observations, any materials and equipment used, and anything out of the ordinary that may have happened. Notes should be clear enough, so they are easy to review when writing the final report. Tables are useful for
