Linguistic Diversity In Space And Time:

Linguistic Diversity in Space and Time Johanna Nichols,1992-09 Some structural features of languages predict others some remain unchanged in daughter languages others have an areal consistency in establishing typologically historically and geographically stable features in the worlds languages examples are included from Kayardild Djingili Dyirbal Mangarayi Maung Ngiyambaa

Linguistic Diversity in Space and Time Johanna Nichols,1992 Space and Time in Languages and Cultures Luna Filipovi?,Kasia M. Jaszczolt,2012-07-24 This volume offers novel insights into linguistic diversity in the domains of spatial and temporal reference searching for uniformity amongst diversity A number of authors discuss expression of dynamic spatial relations cross linguistically in a vast range of typologically different languages such as Bezhta French Hinuq Italian Japanese Polish Serbian and Spanish among others The contributions on linguistic expression of time all shed new light on pertinent questions regarding this cognitive domain such as the hotly debated relationship between cross linguistic differences in talking about time and universal principles of utterance interpretation modelling temporal inference through aspectual interactions as well as the complexity of the acquisition of tense aspect relations in a second language The topic of space and time in language and culture is also represented from a different point of view in the sister volume Space and Time in Languages and Cultures Language culture and cognition HCP 37 which discusses spatial and temporal constructs in human language cognition and culture in order to come closer to a better understanding of the interaction between shared and individual characteristics of language and culture that shape the way people interact with each other and exchange information about the spatio temporal constructs that underlie their cognitive social and linguistic foundations

Linguistic Diversity in Space and Time Johanna Nichols,2018-12-14 In this ground breaking book Johanna Nichols proposes means of describing comparing and interpreting linguistic diversity both genetic and structural providing the foundations for a theory of diversity based upon population science This book will interest linguists archaeologists and population specialists An awe inspiring book unequalled in scope originality and the range of language data considered Anna Siewierska Linguistics Fascinating A brilliant pioneering study Journal of Indo European Studies A superbly reasoned book John A C Greppin Times Literary Supplement Book Review Jeffrey Heath,1994 Using models from dialect geography and population genetics Nichols links Australian colonization from the Old World on the basis of typological distributions

Space and Time in Languages and Cultures Luna Filipović,2012 Space-Time (Dis)continuities in the Linguistic Landscape Isabelle Buchstaller,Małgorzata Fabiszak,Melody Ann Ross,2024-03-27 This collection spotlights the diachronic dimensions of the linguistic landscape the importance of exploring temporal dissonances in historical events in order to better understand semiotic political and social transformations across different communities over the last century The volume seeks to expand the current borders of linguistic landscape LL research by situating the analysis of signs in the LL within their time space organization which has been understudied in existing scholarship The book featuring chapters from established and emerging scholars argues that a focus on the historicity of the city text can reveal unique insights into the role of semiotic processes as precursors and support mechanisms for political and social changes The collection is structured around different temporal clusters and geographic contexts across the globe where shorter and longer waves of politically driven resemioticization can be most sharply observed post colonial communities post communist societies and recent and current sociopolitical upheavals Taken together the volume proposes a kaleidoscope view of the complex temporalities that underpin multimodal discourses in contested public spaces offering new directions for LL research This book will be of interest to students and scholars in sociolinguistics discourse analysis semiotics visual anthropology and political science The Introduction and Chapter 8 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BYNC ND 4.0 license

Austin,2003 Crosslinguistic Approaches to the Psychology of Language Jiansheng Guo,Elena Lieven,Nancy Budwig,Susan Ervin-Tripp,Keiko Nakamura,Seyda Ozcaliskan,2010-10-18 This volume covers state of the art research in the field of crosslinguistic approaches to the psychology of language The forty chapters cover a wide range of topics that represent the many research interests of a pioneer Dan Isaac Slobin who has been a major intellectual and creative force in the field of child language development linguistics and psycholinguistics for the past four decades Slobin has insisted on a rigorous crosslinguistic approach in his attempt to identify universal developmental patterns in language learning to explore the effects of particular types of languages on psycholinguistic processes to determine the extent to which universals of language and language behavior are determined by modality vocal auditory vs manual visual and finally to investigate the relation between linguistic and cognitive processes In this volume researchers take up the challenge of the differences between languages to forward research in four major areas with which Slobin has been concerned throughout his career language learning in crosslinguistic perspective spoken and sign languages the integration of language specific factors in narrative skill theoretical issues in typology language development and language change and the relationship between language and cognition All chapters are written by leading researchers currently working in these fields who are Slobin s colleagues collaborators or former students in linguistics psychology anthropology and cognitive science Each section starts with an introductory chapter that connects the themes of the chapters and reviews Slobin s contribution in the context of past research trends and future directions The whole volume focuses squarely on the central argument universals of human language and of its development are embodied and revealed in its diverse manifestations and utilization Crosslinguistic Approaches to the Study of Language is a key resource for those interested in the range of differences between languages and how this impacts on learning cognition and language change and a tribute to Dan Slobin's momentous contribution to the field TLLS, the Times Literary Supplement, 1993 The Computational Nature of Language Learning and Evolution Partha Niyogi, 2006 Learning is the mechanism by which language is transferred from old speakers to new General Linguistics, 1993 Language and Linguistics in Melanesia, 1995 Language, 2001 Proceedings of the annual meeting of the Society in v 1 11 1925 34 After 1934 they appear in Its Bulletin Space in Language and Cognition Annika Wildersch, 2015-12-07 Seminar paper from the year 2015 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Other grade 2 0 Humboldt University of Berlin Institut für Anglistik und Amerikanistik course Sprachwissenschaftliche Methoden und Englischunterricht language English abstract This term paper deals with the debate between two opposing viewpoints about the causation between language and cognition in the spatial domain The first perspective is called linguistic relativity which holds that the structure of a language influences the cognitive processes of the speakers and affects the ways in which they conceive the world In other words the principle of linguistic relativity claims that language shapes the way we think This standpoint will be represented by articles from research groups around the linguists Eric Pederson and Stephen Levinson Pederson et al 1998 Levinson et al 2002 The opposing stance contains the universalist notion that all languages are broadly similar and linguistic systems are merely the formal and expressive medium that speakers use to describe their mental representations Hence linguistic coding cannot have effects on cognition but reflects antecedently existing conceptual distinctions This attitude is conveyed by the psychologists Peggy Li and Lila Gleitman Li Gleitman 2002 who argue that it is the thought that counts ibid 291 The paper is structured in the following way To explain the basis of the debate the main part opens with an introduction of the different frames of reference that are employed in distinct languages to convey spatial information Next Pederson's experiments and interpretations about the effect of spatial coding in language on cognition are presented Then a reinterpretation of these findings and further experiments by Li and Gleitman are outlined Finally a critical comment by Levinson on Li and Gleitman's analysis will show how he defends the position of linguistic relativity in the domain of spatial coding In the concluding chapter of this paper a summary of the debate will be provided accompanied by a discussion about the transferability on the general relation between language and cognition Anthropological Linguistics, 1994 Lingua, 1995 International review of general linguistics
