

Ecological Pyramids Worksheet

1. Give one example of a food chain that exists in nature. Grass-mouse-snake-hawk
2. In an ecological pyramid, what happens to energy, biomass and # of species as you move up? Why?
They all decrease because energy is lost as it moves up each trophic level. Each trophic level requires more energy to sustain it, increasing competition for resources and causing number of organisms to drop.
3. What is biomass? Biomass is the total mass of dry organic matter per unit area.
4. In an ecosystem, can there be more carnivores than herbivores? Explain why or why not?
No, there must be more herbivores because the herbivores provide food for the primary consumers. If the carnivores outnumbered the herbivores, the herbivores would die out and the carnivores would begin to starve.
5. What is the 10% rule? What is its significance? Why is energy lost? 10% rule refers to the fact that only 10% of available energy is transferred from one trophic level to the next as an organism eats. It is significant because it determines the amount of organisms at each trophic level and creates the pyramidal shape. Energy is lost due to heat, inedible parts, and the simple fact that not all prey are eaten by predators.
6. Brainstorm to create a list of 2 human activities that interfere with ecosystems, food chains and food webs.
Pollution (incineration, factories, fuel combustion), Overhunting/fishing, Deforestation etc.
7. Label the ecological pyramid below with the following words: producers, tertiary consumer, secondary consumer, autotroph, heterotroph, primary consumer, decomposers, hawk, grass, chicken, grasshopper. Also label and explain what happens to energy, biomass and number of organism.

8. Discuss what trophic level humans can occupy on an ecological pyramid, and explain what happens to contaminants and environmental pollution (such as mercury) as you move down and up the ecological pyramid (what is this called?). Humans can occupy any consumer trophic level depending on what they are eating. Contaminants accumulate in greater concentrations as you move up the pyramid. This is called biomagnification.
9. Look at the food web on the first page of the article. Who does the Mated Geese depend on for survival? Sedge

Community Food Webs Joel E. Cohen,Frédéric Briand,Charles M. Newman,2012-12-06 Food webs hold a central place in ecology They describe which organisms feed on which others in natural habitats This book describes recently discovered empirical regularities in real food webs it proposes a novel theory unifying many of these regularities as well as extensive empirical data After a general introduction reviewing the empirical and theoretical discoveries about food webs the second portion of the book shows that community food webs obey several striking phenomenological regularities Some of these unify regardless of habitat Others differentiate showing that habitat significantly influences structure The third portion of the book presents a theoretical analysis of some of the unifying empirical regularities The fourth portion of the book presents 113 community food webs Collected from scattered sources and carefully edited they are the empirical basis for the results in the volume The largest available set of data on community food webs provides a valuable foundation for future studies of community food webs The book is intended for graduate students teachers and researchers primarily in ecology The theoretical portions of the book provide materials useful to teachers of applied combinatorics in particular random graphs

Researchers in random graphs will find here unsolved mathematical problems Food Webs Stuart L. Pimm,2002-05-30
Food webs are diagrams depicting which species interact or in other words who eats whom An understanding of the structure and function of food webs is crucial for any study of how an ecosystem works including attempts to predict which communities might be more vulnerable to disturbance and therefore in more immediate need of conservation Although it was first published twenty years ago Stuart Pimm s Food Webs remains the clearest introduction to the study of food webs Reviewing various hypotheses in the light of theoretical and empirical evidence Pimm shows that even the most complex food webs follow certain patterns and that those patterns are shaped by a limited number of biological processes such as population dynamics and energy flow Pimm provides a variety of mathematical tools for unravelling these patterns and processes and demonstrates their application through concrete examples For this edition he has written a new foreword covering recent developments in the study of food webs and demonstrates their continuing importance to conservation biology Food Chains and Webs ,1995 This program teaches one of the basic principles of life science how organisms within a biological community depend on each other for food and survival The concepts of autographs heterotrophs niches in a community food chains food webs and energy pyramids are explored Chains, Webs, & Pyramids Laurence Pringle,1975 Describes the steps in a food chain and discusses their importance in the maintenance of life Learning about Food Chains and Food Webs with Graphic Organizers Julie Fiedler,2007 Examines food chains and food webs using graphic organizers Food Webs S. Pimm,2011-11-15 Often the meanings of words are changed subtly for interesting reasons The implication of the word community has changed from including all the organisms in an area to only those species at a particular trophic level and often a taxonomically restricted group for example bird community If this observation is correct its probable cause is the dramatic growth in our knowledge of the ecological patterns along trophic levels I call these horizontal patterns and the processes that generate them This book deals with vertical patterns those across trophic levels and tries to compensate for their relative neglect In cataloging a dozen vertical patterns I hope to convince the reader that species interactions across trophic levels are as patterned as those along trophic levels and demand explanations equally forcefully But this is not the only objective A limited number of processes shape the patterns of species interaction to demonstrate their existence is an essential step in understanding why ecosystems are the way they are To achieve these aims I must resort to both mathematical techniques to develop theories and statistical techniques to decide between rival hypotheses The level of mathematics is likely to offend nearly everyone Some will find any mathematics too much while others will consider the material to be old familiar ground and probably explained with a poor regard for rigour and generality Exploring Food Chains and Food Webs Ella Hawley,2012-08-15 Explains the predator prey relationships that all living things are a part of represented by the food chains and food webs in a variety of habitats how everything is connected and how every living organism plays a role *Stuck in a Web!
