the extent of experiencing positive emotions However more research is needed to determine brain and behavior related quantitative and qualitative age related changes of different aspects of emotion processing and emotional functioning In the current Frontiers research topic we aim to present exciting new findings related to the effects of healthy aging on both more perceptually driven bottom up as well as more cognitively driven top down aspects of emotions In particular questions such as the following need to be raised and addressed What neural and behavioral processes are underlying age differences in emotion perception and memory for emotional information Are there differences between how older and younger adults experience and regulate their emotions and what drives these differences Is there a gradual reduction or more of a qualitative change of our emotional experiences over the life cycle from the turbulent childhood and youth to the mellower old age And what aspects of age related changes in emotional processing can be explained by age related changes in the brain and which are more affected by other factors such as changes in other body systems in experiential processes or in overall life goals
