relationship between the women's powers and their own Coakley argues that they viewed these relationships as gendered partnerships that brought together female mystical power and male ecclesiastical authority without placing one above the other Women Men and Spiritual Power chronicles a wide ranging experiment in the balance of formal and informal powers in which it was assumed to be thoroughly imaginable for both sorts of authority in their distinctly gendered terms to coexist and build on each other The men's writings reflect an extended moment in western Christianity when clerics had enough confidence in their authority to actually question its limits After about 1400 however clerics underwent a crisis of confidence and such a questioning of institutional power was no longer considered safe Instead of seeing women as partners their revelatory powers began to be viewed as evidence of witchcraft
