Libraries & the Internet Toolkit ,2001 A Guide to Using the Anonymous Web in Libraries and Information Organizations Brady D Lund,Brady D. (Emporia State University Lund, USA),Matthew A. Beckstrom,2022-03-18 A Guide to

Using the Anonymous Web in Libraries and Information Organizations provides practical guidance to those who are interested in integrating the anonymous web into their services. It will be particularly useful to those seeking to promote enhanced privacy for their patrons. The book begins by explaining in simple terms what the anonymous web is, how it works, and its benefits for users. Lund and Beckstrom also explain why they believe access to the anonymous web should be provided in library and information organizations around the world. They describe how to provide access as well as educate library users on how to utilize the anonymous web and navigate any challenges that might arise during implementation. The authors also encourage the development of library policies that guide appropriate conduct and filter content where appropriate in order to deter illegal activity. A Guide to Using the Anonymous Web in Libraries and Information Organizations reminds us that libraries and other information providers have a duty to educate and support their communities while also preserving privacy. Demonstrating that the anonymous web can help them to fulfil these obligations, this book will be essential reading for library and information professionals working around the world.

The Librarian's Guide to Genealogical Services and Research James Swan, 2004. For librarians and others who guide genealogical researchers, a handbook from one who learned the skill on a sink or swim basis as a reference librarian at Brigham Young University Library in the 1960s. True to his name, he swam. It covers how to help researchers get started, develop collections, use technology to find out about other collections, provide instruction for genealogists, and stay current professionally. Internet Reference Support for Distance Learners Rita Pellen, William Miller, 2013-12-19. Make separate library services for distance learners a thing of the past. Internet Reference Support for Distance Learners takes a comprehensive look at efforts by librarians and information specialists to provide distance learners with effective services that match those already available on campus. With the development of the World Wide Web and the evolution of Web-based services, reference librarians are adding a human element to the virtual library, blurring the difference between distance learners and traditional users. This unique book examines how they deal with a wide range of related topics, including standards and guidelines, copyright issues, streaming media, and chat and digital references, and presents a historical overview of how reference and instructional services have been delivered to distance users before and after the creation of the Internet. Internet Reference Support for Distance Learners reveals that librarians do not make a sharp distinction between reference and instruction within the context of distance learning and that there is no clear boundary between true distance learners and more traditional students who might use services designed for nontraditional users. Online capabilities have allowed reference librarians to approximate services advocated by published guidelines and standards, including the ACRL Distance Learning Section's Guidelines for Distance Learning Library Services, to provide a framework for librarians to plan services for off-campus students. Internet Reference Support for Distance Learners provides practical information on how librarians can keep IT simple when designing methods to access reference support, why library Web sites are vital sources of communication. between the distance learning student and the reference based instructional component how to set up a university chat service including software selection staff training and assessment how to provide students services beyond traditional provision of resources including advising enrollment and payment of fees how to create an online assistance site that incorporates online versions of traditional print handouts FAQs subject guides course specific guides learning modules and instructional videos in one central location how to work with faculty to create online support for students in Blackboard courses the pros and cons of using open source software how to create an online library assistance site how to create online information literacy course to teach independent research skills to remote students how to avoid copyright infringement and how to educate library personnel about copyright law how to use Camtasia Studio a screen capture program to create audio and video for online presentations Internet Reference Support for Distance Learners is an invaluable resource for librarians working in academic school special and public settings and for library science faculty and students The Entrepreneurial Librarian Mary Krautter, Mary Beth Lock, Mary G. Scanlon, 2014-01-10 The old image of an entrepreneur as a scrappy independent risk taker has been replaced by the reality of individuals incorporating innovative ideas in more traditional settings This collection of essays illustrates how librarians are infusing entrepreneurial principles in a variety of arenas including public private academic and special libraries It chronicles how entrepreneurial librarians are flourishing in the digital age advocating social change responding to patron demands designing new services and developing exciting fundraising programs Applying new business models to traditional services they eagerly embrace entrepreneurship in response to patrons demands funding declines changing resource formats and other challenges By documenting the current state of entrepreneurship in libraries this volume upends the public image of librarians as ill suited to risky or creative ventures and places them instead on the cutting edge of innovations in the field Digital Libraries: International Collaboration and Cross-Fertilization Zhaoneng Chen, Hsinchun Chen, Qihao Miao, Yuxi Fu, Edward Fox, Ee-peng Lim, 2004-12-03 The International Conference on Asian Digital Libraries ICADL is an annual international forum that provides opportunities for librarians researchers and experts to exchange their research results innovative ideas service experiences and state the art developments in the field of digital libraries Building on the success of the first six ICADL conferences the 7th ICADL conference hosted by the Shanghai Jiao Tong University and the Shanghai Library in Shanghai China aimed to further strengthen the academic collaboration and strategic alliance in the Asia Pacific Region in the development of digital libraries The theme of ICADL 2004 was Digital library International Collaboration and Cross fertilization with its focus on technology services management and localization The conference began with an opening ceremony and the conference program featured 9 keynote speeches and 5 invited speeches by local and international experts During the 3 day program 40 research paper presentations were given in 3 parallel sessions The conference also included 6 tutorials and an exhibition The conference received 359 submissions comprising 248 full papers and 111 short papers Each paper was carefully reviewed by the Program Committee members Finally 44 full papers 15 short papers and 37 poster papers were selected On behalf of the Organizing and Program Committees of ICADL 2004 we would like to express our appreciation to all authors and attendees for participating in the conference We also thank the sponsors Program Committee members supporting organizations and helpers for making the conference a success Without their efforts the conference would not have been possible
