Investigations of Nature Domenico Bertoloni Meli, 2025-11-18 Investigations of Nature takes us on a guided tour through history when voyages of exploration and exploitation were tied to technological advances in navigation and warfare religious unity was broken with huge political economic and intellectual consequences and the new art of printing led to an explosion of information After a brief introduction each part of this book from sections on the Renaissance to the Epistemic Revolution to the Enlightenment opens with a chapter discussing a defining characteristic geography and navigation characterize the Renaissance as the age of discovery and colonialism astronomy and optics characterize the Epistemic Revolution as the age of new instruments such as the telescope and universal gravity in Newton's time characterizes the Enlightenment as the age of quantification with welcome and unwelcome consequences and reflection on the status of our theories Heavily illustrated and with a practical historiographic guide and bibliography for further reading this book is an indispensable teaching tool for anyone seeking an accessible survey of the Renaissance or the Enlightenment

Mapping Paradise Alessandro Scafi, 2006 Throughout history humans have searched for paradise When early Christians adopted the Hebrew Bible and with it the story of Genesis the Garden of Eden became an idyllic habitat for all mankind Medieval Christians believed this paradise was a place on earth different from this world and yet part of it situated in real geography and indicated on maps From the Renaissance through the Enlightenment the mapping of paradise validated the authority of holy scripture and supported Christian faith But from the early nineteenth century onwards the question of the exact location of paradise was left not to theologians but to the layman And at the beginning of the twenty-first century there is still no end to the stream of theories on the location of the former Garden of Eden Mapping Paradise is a history of the cartography of paradise that journeys from the beginning of Christianity to the present day Instead of dismissing the medieval belief in a paradise on earth as a picturesque legend and the cartography of paradise as an example of the period's many superstitions Alessandro Scafi explores the intellectual conditions that made the medieval mapping of paradise possible The challenge for mapmakers Scafi argues was to make visible a place that was geographically inaccessible and yet real remote in time and yet still the scene of an essential episode of the history of salvation Mapping Paradise also accounts for the transformations in both theological doctrine and cartographical practice that brought about the decline of the belief in a terrestrial paradise and the emergence of the new historical and regional mapping of the Garden of Eden that began at the time of the Reformation and still continues today The first book to show how paradise has been expressed in cartographic form throughout two millennia Mapping Paradise reveals how the most deeply reflective thoughts about the ultimate destiny of all human life have been molded and remolded generation by generation

The Mediterranean Redux Naor H Ben-Yehoyada, Paul Silverstein, 2022-04-27 This book on historical anthropology remaps the Mediterranean by reframing classical themes from early Mediterraneanist anthropology This edited volume showcases how anthropology can contribute to an understanding of ongoing transnational dynamics and the new wave of scholarship on the Mediterranean

The Mediterranean is back as a locus of international anxiety and academic concern. It has reemerged in the international news cycle as a space of desperate crossings and tragic endings as the site in which a refugee crisis rivalling that of the Second World War is playing out in real time for a global viewing public. The scale of the crisis has called into question Europe's humanitarian principles and internal political union making the Mediterranean into a mirror for long standing tensions between norms of universalism and demands for national security. These captivating events have further raised the tide of scholars interest in the Mediterranean. How should ethnographers contribute to the new wave of scholarship on the Mediterranean. To what extent does the Mediterranean offer alternative forms of political relatedness to those construed from within Europe, North Africa and the Middle East. In this volume we reframe classical themes from early iterations of Mediterranean anthropology to address these questions in our examinations of changing dynamics across land and sea borders bringing ethnography back to the study of the Mediterranean and the Mediterranean with its Mediterraneanism back to ethnography. The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the journal History and Anthropology.
