

MAXIM High-Frequency Waveform Generator

MAX9339

General Description

The MAX9339 is a high-frequency, precision, self-contained waveform generator designed to generate high-frequency (up to 100MHz), sine, square, and pulse waveforms and a nonreciprocal delay (NDR) waveform. The MAX9339 can be configured over an operating range of 0.1Hz to 100MHz for an internal 3.3V supply or with a reference load an external voltage and current. The MAX9339 can be used over a wide range by applying a 1.2V_{PP} square wave, generating pulse-width modulated (PWM) and the generation of a square wave at the frequency, modulus, and frequency ranging up to 100MHz in the same way. The duty cycle and frequency conditions are independent.

Slow square or triangle waveforms can be created in the output by setting the appropriate value of the TTL-compatible control pins. The output signal for an external load is a 200mV signal which is not ground referenced. The non-reciprocal delay output can drive up to 50pF.

The TTL-compatible control signal from the internal oscillator maintains a 50% duty cycle independent of the duty cycle of the other waveforms. In fact, the other waveforms can operate in the system. The internal oscillator can be re-configured to an external TTL clock (external 100MHz).
