1. True. The average life expectancy when a person is born increases steadily with each century, starting with 30 in the 1700s and continuing to rise to 80 in the 2000s. The improvement in medicine alone does not suggest that you have a promising future.

2. False. While the quality of medical care has improved significantly with each century, many people would not survive the 19th century or beyond. The quality of medicine in the 1700s and 1800s was not as good as today.

3. Correct.

- A. Because people I never knew died.
- B. Because so many people around here (around here) died.
- C. Because the technological age has not advanced.
