Making Sense of Equations Randy Palisoc,2014-10-28 Whether you realize or not mathematics is actually a language The purpose of a language is to communicate and mathematics is how we communicate about quantities and logical relationships We do so by using signs symbols and other mathematical terms One of the most important communication tools in the language of math is an equation When students can use equations fluently it helps them communicate in math more precisely and it helps them more easily make sense of math Equations help us solve a variety of problems from figuring out how many laps a swimmer must complete during her workout to figuring out how much it will cost to go on vacation Like any communication tool equations are full of nuances These countless little details can either cause a great deal of confusion or they can be opportunities to build precision and fluency Making Sense of Equations focuses on precision and fluency and it helps students notice the little details that have a big impact on understanding     Mathwise Linear Equations Honorary

Speech Bubbles with Teacher Insights Speech bubbles are used to provide guidance point out insights or give helpful hints as

Instruction Every page excluding review pages or quizzes has a specific focus Most pages have generous amounts of white space to keep students focused Movement is from the simple to the increasingly complex Step By Step Procedures Students learn best when given explicit step by step instruction When several steps are involved the steps are numbered This makes learning much more logical and memorable Logical Sequential Instruction Carefully designed problems are presented in a logical sequence so that previous answers contribute to students abilities to solve future problems The order in which math problems are presented is critical to promoting number sense This edition comes with an answer key and is reproducible for single classroom use
