Answer Key

Background: cellular respiration, blood vessel, pathway, circulatory system, heart, arteries, pulmonary artery, pulmonary vein, capillary wall, vein, ventricle, ventricle, blood cell

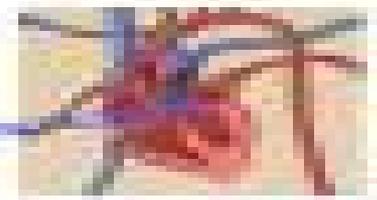

Pre-knowledge Questions (Answers are in the following questions)

1. Why is pulmonary circulation important?
Pulmonary circulation carries deoxygenated blood from the heart to the lungs, where it picks up oxygen and releases carbon dioxide.

2. What is the general flow of blood through your body's circulation?

Class Activity:
Illustrate the general flow of blood through the heart and lungs. Label the heart, arteries, and veins in the pulmonary circuit and the systemic circuit.

3. How many chambers does the heart have?
4. Describe the "right" and "left" sides of the heart. How does blood flow through the heart?
The heart has four chambers: the right atrium, right ventricle, left atrium, and left ventricle. Blood flows from the right atrium to the right ventricle, then to the lungs. From the lungs, it flows to the left atrium, then to the left ventricle, and finally to the rest of the body.

5. How do arteries differ from veins in the process of blood circulation?
Arteries carry blood away from the heart, while veins carry blood back to the heart.

6. Illustrate the flow of blood within the heart. How does the flow of blood in the heart differ from the flow of blood in the rest of the body?
a. Blood circulates clockwise during each cycle.
b. Blood circulates counter-clockwise during each cycle.

7. Compare why the right ventricle has a thicker wall than the left ventricle and how this relates to the function of the heart.
The right ventricle has a thinner wall because it pumps blood to the lungs, which are close by. The left ventricle has a thicker wall because it pumps blood to the rest of the body, which is further away.
