the experience of concentrated areas of innovation that occurred organically such as Boston's Route 128 as well as intentional projects to bring together innovators in large science and technology parks such as North Carolina's Research Triangle Park Existing research focuses on how to define and design innovation districts and evaluate their impact as well as general policy considerations In this paper we review the definitions and benefits of an innovation district reviewing the existing empirical research on their impacts We then propose a series of questions to guide practitioners in addressing the economic physical social and governance elements of an innovation district Finally we outline some of the challenges in creating an innovation district and ways to measure progress to allow practitioners to get ahead of potential issues in the future This paper is intended to help policymakers and practitioners working in innovation and economic development translate the concepts of innovation ecosystems into actionable next steps for planning innovation districts in their communities

Growing Community Forests Ryan Bullock, Gayle Broad, Lynn Palmer, M.A. (Peggy) Smith, 2017-10-13
Canada is experiencing an unparalleled crisis involving forests and communities across the country While municipalities policy makers and industry leaders acknowledge common challenges such as an overdependence on US markets rising energy costs and lack of diversification no common set of solutions has been developed and implemented Ongoing and at times contentious public debate has revealed an appetite and need for a fundamental rethinking of the relationships that link our communities governments industrial partners and forests towards a more sustainable future The creation of community forests is one path that promises to build resilience in forest communities and ecosystems This model provides local control over common forest lands in order to activate resource development opportunities benefits and social responsibilities Implementing community forestry in practice has proven to be a complex task however there are no road maps or well developed and widely tested models for community forestry in Canada But in settings where community forests have taken hold there is a rich and growing body of experience to draw on The contributors to Growing Community Forests include leading researchers practitioners Indigenous representatives government representatives local advocates and students who are actively engaged in sharing experiences resources and tools of significance to forest resource communities policy makers and industry

Mobility, Global Capitalism, and Changing Structures of Accumulation Anthony P. D'Costa, 2015-11-19 International mobility is not a new concept as people have moved throughout history voluntarily and forcibly for personal familial economic political and professional reasons Yet the mobility of technical talent in the global economy is relatively new largely voluntary structurally determined by market forces and influenced by immigration policies With over a decade s worth of extensive research in India Japan Finland and Singapore this book provides an alternative understanding of how capitalism functions at the global level by specifically analyzing the international movement of technical professionals between India and Japan There are three factors that inform this study the services transition away from manufacturing the movement of technical professionals in the world economy and the demographic crisis facing Japan The dynamics of changing capitalism are examined by theorizing the emergence of the services sector in the USA and Japan analyzing the pronounced social inequality in India that is the basis for the global supply of highly skilled technical professionals and providing considerable empirical data on the flows of professionals to these two countries to indicate Japan s institutional inflexibility in accommodating foreign talent The author anticipates that Japanese industry will shed some of its institutional rigidity due to the pressures of competition and the scarcity of technical professionals Providing a wealth of information on the topic of international mobility this book is an essential addition for scholars and students in the field of International Development Business Studies Asian Studies Migration Studies and Political Economy

The New Urban Crisis Richard Florida, 2017-04-11 In recent years the young educated and affluent have surged back into cities reversing decades of suburban flight and urban decline And yet all is not well Richard Florida argues in The New Urban Crisis Florida one of the first scholars to anticipate this back to the city movement in his groundbreaking The Rise of the Creative Class demonstrates how the same forces that power the growth of the world s superstar cities also generate their vexing challenges gentrification unaffordability segregation and inequality Meanwhile many more cities still stagnate and middle class neighborhoods everywhere are disappearing Our winner take all cities are just one manifestation of a profound crisis in today s urbanized knowledge economy A bracingly original work of research and analysis The New Urban Crisis offers a compelling diagnosis of our economic ills and a bold prescription for more inclusive cities capable of ensuring growth and prosperity for all
