Unfreezing the Arctic Andrew Stuhl,2016-11-03 This account of a region transformed and threatened offers a timely historical reflection on the important social role of science and scientists Historical Geography In recent years environmentalists have pointed urgently to the melting Arctic as a leading indicator of climate change While climate change has unleashed profound transformations in the region many commentators mislabel them as unprecedented In reality the landscapes of the North American Arctic as well as relations among scientists Inuit and federal governments are products of the region s colonial past And even as policy analysts activists and scholars clamor about the future of our world s northern rim few truly understand its past In Unfreezing the Arctic Andrew Stuhl brings a fresh perspective to this defining challenge of our time Stuhl weaves together a wealth of episodes into a transnational history of the North American Arctic providing a richer understanding of its social and environmental transformation Drawing on historical records and extensive ethnographic fieldwork as well as time spent living in the Northwest Territories he examines the long running interplay of scientific exploration colonial control the experiences of Inuit residents and multinational investments in natural resources With a comprehensive look at a century of scientific activity he covers the political economic environmental and social history of this transboundary region A worthy addition to the recent wave of work on northern history Bridging the histories of colonialism resource management military activity and Indigenous self determination Stuhl focuses on Alaska and northwest Canada including the Beaufort Sea Mackenzie Delta and surrounding region Canadian Journal of History The author intends to donate all royalties from this book to the Alaska Youth for Environmental Action AYE and East Three School s On the Land Program

The Oxford Handbook of Museum Archaeology Alice Stevenson,2022-08-25 This Handbook provides a transnational reference point for critical engagements with the legacies of and futures for global archaeological collections It challenges the common misconception that museum archaeology is simply a set of procedures for managing and exhibiting assemblages. Instead, this volume advances museum archaeology as an area of reflexive research and practice addressing the critical issues of what gets prioritized by and researched in museums by whom, how and why. Through twenty-eight chapters, authors problematize and suggest new ways of thinking about historic, contemporary, and future relationships between archaeological fieldwork and museums, as well as the array of institutional and cultural paradigms through which archaeological enquiries are mediated. Case studies embrace not just archaeological finds but also archival field notes, photographic media, archaeological samples, and replicas. Throughout, museum activities are put into dialogue with other aspects of archaeological practice with the aim of situating museum work within a more holistic archaeology that does not privilege excavation or field survey above other aspects of disciplinary engagement. These concerns will be grounded in the realities of museums internationally, including Latin America, Africa, Asia, Oceania, North America, and Europe. In so doing, the common heritage sector refrain, best practice is not assumed to solely emanate from developed countries or European philosophies but instead is considered as emerging from and accommodated within local concerns and diverse museum cultures.

The Middle and Upper Paleolithic Archeology of the Levant and Beyond Yoshihiro Nishiaki, Takeru Akazawa, 2017-12-06. This volume is a compilation of results from sessions of the Second International Conference on the Replacement of Neanderthals by Modern Humans, which took place between November 30 and December 6, 2014, in Hokkaido, Japan. Similar to the first conference held in 2012 in Tokyo, the 2014 conference RNMH2014 aimed to compile the results of the latest multidisciplinary approaches investigating the issues surrounding the replacement of Neanderthals by modern humans. The results of the sessions, supplemented by off-site contributions, center on the archeology of the Middle and Upper Paleolithic of the Levant and beyond. The first part of this volume presents recent findings from the Levant, while the second part focuses on the neighboring regions, namely the Caucasus, the Zagros, and South Asia. The 13 chapters in this volume highlight the distinct nature of the cultural occurrences during the Middle and Upper Paleolithic periods of the Levant, displaying a continuous development as well as a combination of lithic traditions that may have originated in different regions. This syncretism, which is an unusual occurrence in the regions discussed in this volume, reinforces the importance of the Levant as a region for interpreting the RNMH phenomenon in West Asia.

artificial neural network springerlink - Feb 23 2022 web oct 16 2023 for example the neural network in fig 1 5 is a single layer neural network while that in fig 1 6 is a shallow neural network also known as a common neural network it is easy to see that the functional of the input layer node is only to transmit the signal to the next layer node without designing other operations so the number of layers of the neural a gpu based computational framework that bridges neuron - Oct 02 2022 web sep 18 2023 we build a deepdendrite framework which integrates the dhs method and the gpu computing engine of the neuron simulator and demonstrate applications of deepdendrite in neuroscience tasks
