The Bass Trombonist's Guide to the Tuba Repertoire Lucas J. Kaspar, 2018 The bass trombone's range is very similar to the tuba. Unfortunately, there is a dearth of solo repertoire composed for the bass trombone. Due to its relatively new development, many composers do not know how to properly write for the instrument. The most common error is composers writing too high for the instrument. Though the bass trombone has the capability of playing the soaring high notes of a tenor trombone, it is much more fatiguing than on a tenor trombone. The range of the tuba suits the bass trombone as it requires performing mostly in the mid to low register while occasionally reaching the high register. The aim of this document is to provide a catalog of tuba repertoire that is realistic for bass trombonists. The document is structured in nine major chapters: 1 Introduction discusses the process of constructing this document; 2 History of the Double Valve Bass Trombone; 3 Unaccompanied Solos; 4 Solos with Keyboard; 5 Solos with Band or Orchestra; 6 Solos with Electronic Media; 7 Etudes and Method Books; 8 Duets; and 9 Further Research.

The Teaching of Instrumental Music Richard Colwell, Michael Hewitt, 2015-08-20 This book introduces music education majors to basic instrumental pedagogy for the instruments and ensembles most commonly found in the elementary and secondary curricula. This text focuses on the core competencies required for teacher certification in instrumental music. The first section of the book focuses on essential issues for a successful instrumental program: objectives, assessment and evaluation, motivation, administrative tasks, and recruiting and scheduling, including block scheduling. The second section devotes a chapter to each wind instrument plus percussion and strings and includes troubleshooting checklists for each instrument. The third section focuses on rehearsal techniques from the first day through high school.
