

Self-Contained Ceiling Mount Occupancy Sensor Switch

ODC05-11 (120V)
ODC05-17 (277V)
ODC05-12 (220V)

APPLICATION

Leviton's Self-Contained Passive Infrared Ceiling Occupancy Sensor is the cost-effective choice for commercial and institutional installations, where installation of the recessed ceiling unit is difficult, inconvenient or costly. Available in 120V, 220V and 277V versions, the ODC05-1 is ideal for storage areas, small bathrooms, copy rooms, mop/vinyl closets or small spaces without wall switches. The Self-Contained Ceiling Sensor does not require an external control unit for power or switching the load ON and OFF.

OPERATION

The Cat. No. ODC05-1 uses passive infrared (PIR) detection technology to monitor a room for occupancy through a segmented Fresnel lens. This specialized lens divides the field of view into sensor zones. When a person passes into or out of a sensor zone, the sensor detects motion and switches its lighting loads ON. The lights will remain ON as long as there is an occupant moving through the sensor zones.

A delayed-OFF time adjustment prevents the lights from switching OFF when the space is occupied. In order to keep the lights ON, a person must pass through a sensor zone at least once during the selected delayed-OFF time interval. The delayed-OFF time settings can be adjusted from 20 seconds (for test mode) to 15 minutes. When the sensor does not detect motion during the selected delayed-OFF time, the sensor will switch the lights OFF automatically after the time interval expires.

The maximum sensing range is approximately 26 feet in diameter when the sensor is mounted in an 8-foot ceiling. A 13-foot diameter "small motion zone" (approximately 169 sq. ft.) detects relatively small body movements and allows lights to stay ON even though employees may not be moving or walking around the room. The remainder of the field, or "large motion zone," exhibits a lesser degree of sensitivity, requiring larger movements. For coverage area at different mounting heights, see Table 1.

The ODC05 is also equipped with an ambient light override option. This option will prevent the sensor from switching the lights ON when there is ample natural sunlight, regardless of occupancy.

Cat. Nos. ODC05-11, 17, 12

At a distance close to the detector, slight movement can be detected. As the distance away from the detector increases, the space between the zones of sensitivity increases, and therefore the amount of motion required to trigger the detector increases.
