

A BRIEF GUIDE TO FACEBOOK INSIGHTS

Some marketers love them, some hate them and some just plain don't understand. From impressions to new likes, the following graph explains the size and relationship of audiences in each metric in Facebook Insights. The model is not to scale since every page is different, but the circles show the relationship between the number of users and actions recorded in each metric.

IMPRESSIONS

This is the total number times people saw anything from your page in the newsfeed or ticker (friends or non-friends).

REACH

The number of people who received impressions. It's likely your content was seen by people more than once, so this number is smaller than total impressions.

POST IMPRESSIONS

This counts how many times your posts were seen in a newsfeed or ticker (friend or non-friend). Regular impressions record all activity. This metric is limited to posts from you.

POST REACH

Just like reach is the number of people who received impressions, post reach tells you how many people your posts reached.

ENGAGED USERS

Engaged users is the number of people who clicked on one of your posts.

TALKING ABOUT THIS

People Talking About This are people who created a newsfeed story from your content by liking, commenting or sharing. When their friends view these stories in newsfeeds and tickers, impressions and reach grow.

NEW LIKES

New likes count as People Talking About This because liking creates a story. Of HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS of people you have the potential to reach, this is the SMALL FRACTION that acted.

FRIENDS OF FRIENDS

This is everyone you have the potential to influence. The extended network is often hundreds of thousands or even millions of people. All other metrics are a fraction of this number - less than 1%.

FROM THIS POINT ON, metrics mostly represent people who are fans or have the potential to become fans through direct interaction with your page content.

OTHER METRICS

LOGGED-IN PAGEVIEWS - This is the number of people who viewed your Timeline while logged into Facebook. Since the majority of views come from logged-in users, this is a pretty good indication of everyone who came to your page.

CONSUMPTION/CONSUMERS - When you post any media (link, photos or videos) it is "consumed" when a user clicks to view. The number of consumers is the total number of people who create consumptions.

The Ultimate Guide to Facebook Audience Research Intaz Ali, 2017-04-30 Since the dawn of time most business owners especially the successful ones have been constantly thinking about how to grow their business If your business doesn't grow it will fail simple as that Learn From the Customers You Have The best potential customers are like your current customers so your job is to find out what your customers like other than you and where people who like that thing hang out Facebook makes it easy Remember they make their money with advertisements so they are more than willing to give you the data you need to buy an effective ad You know this and you've probably used Facebook Audience Insights to locate your customers and target people like them You've placed some ads with moderate success and you'd like to make them more effective and efficient Think Narrow Think Efficient The key to efficiency with Facebook ads is in narrowing your target audience Remember Facebook ads are based on an auction system where you bid for a placement If you define your audience very broadly you'll reach a lot of people and pay for it because everyone is trying to reach those people If you define your audience more narrowly you'll cut your costs by reaching fewer people and if you do it right increase the percentage of them that become customers thus making your ad buy dramatically more efficient Imagine a high end wedding planner They cost a lot because they're very good and they plan weddings to die for They could advertise at everyone who says they're engaged or they could advertise at everyone who says they're engaged who also makes more than 100 000 a year They aren't going to reach as many people but the people they aren't reaching probably weren't going to buy their services anyway Think About Multiple Slices You probably have a customer base that's a bit wider than wedding planners do They have a clearly and narrowly defined audience but they don't get much in the way of repeat business Your customer base is probably built on more than one demographic category Imagine a neighborhood pizza place They obviously serve people who like pizza subs and related appetizers Who is that Families with young children often find themselves a bit too harried to make dinner Having a pizza or two delivered fills a need Sports fans who gather with friends to watch big games will often need several pizzas and appetizers big orders for a pizza place Teenagers walking home from school will often stop for a slice and a soda as they hang out with friends Young professionals who work way too many hours and don't have time to cook will order something to pick up on the way home from work All of the above are valid market segments that might be a big part of a pizza business depending on where it is and who lives there but they aren't all going to respond to the same ads Your business is probably similar in that you have a number of different demographic segments Don't stop at defining one audience If your data shows a significant audience at any broad demographic category dig down until you can find a narrow one that fits and customize an ad that targets them You might end up with three ads You might end up with twelve but if you've done this right they will all be efficient We've barely touched the surface here You could write a book about defining your audiences with Facebook Audience Insights and in fact we have In it we go through everything we said above and in much more detail We also go into things that we couldn't even begin to cover in a short article like this Get it now and grow your business almost immediately Facebook Advertising Essentials: A Practical Guide to Effective Facebook Ads Campaigns Nathan Brooks Miller ,2025-07-14 Transform
