

When you are given a pedigree diagram of human pedigree with quantitative characters, remember that the mode of inheritance is not always dominant-recessive. In such cases, the following guidelines are helpful: parents of "normal" state children are never affected themselves; but if a child has normally the quantitative character, and either one parent is affected with the quantitative character, then parents should be heterozygous for quantitative character.

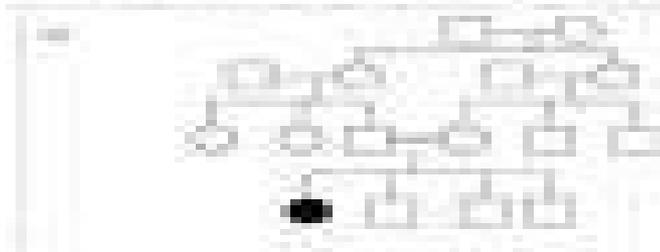

How to Analyze Pedigree

Parents: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - heterozygous for the quantitative character - unaffected parents can not heterozygous state 	Children: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - some affected parents can not have non affected parents - non affected children heterozygous state
Parents: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - one heterozygous parent - heterozygous state affected - non heterozygous state

1. In each of the pedigrees, identify the mode of inheritance & explain with suitable crosses (showing genes).

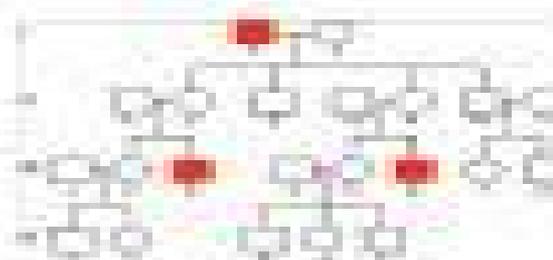

- Autosomal recessive
- affected appearing in every 2 affected parents
- affected carrier (heterozygous) of disease gene

- affected carrier
- unaffected non affected
- heterozygous state affected non heterozygous state

- affected carrier
- heterozygous state non affected parents
- affected carrier (heterozygous) of disease gene
