Exploratory Data Analysis in Business and Economics Thomas Cleff, 2013-11-12 In a world in which we are constantly surrounded by data figures and statistics it is imperative to understand and to be able to use quantitative methods. Statistical models and methods are among the most important tools in economic analysis, decision making and business planning. This textbook, Exploratory Data Analysis in Business and Economics, aims to familiarise students of economics and business as well as practitioners in firms with the basic principles, techniques and applications of descriptive statistics and data analysis. Drawing on practical examples from business settings, it demonstrates the basic descriptive methods of univariate and bivariate analysis. The textbook covers a range of subject matter from data collection and scaling to the presentation and univariate analysis of quantitative data and also includes analytic procedures for assessing bivariate relationships. It does not confine itself to presenting descriptive statistics but also addresses the use of computer programmes such as Excel, SPSS and STATA, thus treating all of the topics typically covered in a university course on descriptive statistics. The German edition of this textbook is one of the bestsellers on the German market for literature in statistics.

Rethinking Economics Education Sam Allgood, KimMarie McGoldrick, 2025-09-10 Innovative and timely, this book explores how to develop economic education by providing a framework for improving research into the field. Sam Allgood and KimMarie McGoldrick analyse what is known about trends in course enrollments, pedagogies and outcomes to identify gaps in understanding.

Chinese Students in UK Further Education Rosemary A. Reynolds, 2017-12-15 Chinese students in the UK have been increasing in number for many years, yet competition from other Western educators and increasing investment in China's own education system has led to concern that UK institutions may soon see a decline in their market share. Dr Reynolds addresses this issue in Chinese Students in UK Further Education by attempting to understand students' experiences from their perspective. Beginning with an exploration of why these students choose to come and study in the UK and why they are coming at younger ages, the book goes on to discuss topics such as risk, technology and diversity in order to understand which factors have the greatest influence on where they choose to study and whether they choose to remain at an institution. Drawing on data from two different education institutions, providers of GCSE A level programmes for students aged 16-18 years, Dr Reynolds attempts to understand what these students experience during their studies, how they manage new social relationships and whether, upon course completion, they achieved the results they desired at the outset. Moreover, the book aims to ascertain whether the students feel in hindsight that the decision to risk investing in UK further education was right and what they might communicate about UK study to contacts in China and elsewhere. The book examines what further education institutions do well and where they might improve to help develop Chinese students' educational experiences. As such, it will be essential reading for academics, researchers and postgraduates in the fields of further education, sociology of education, international and intercultural education and mobility studies.
