

Quote 56B: Some analysts argue the America of today is almost- at least socially- going back to the days of super-wealthy elites as opposed to the great mass of the middle and working classes, and the underclass. They cite facts like the U.S. has the highest technology hospitals in the world, but many people cannot afford to go. That we have a huge country with a lot of quality housing, but many people cannot afford the rents, property taxes and utilities to maintain a decent standard of living in them. In your opinion, is Henry George's critique of the Gilded Age applicable to our own time? If you were a lawyer arguing both sides of the case, what arguments could you use to support each contention?

America is not like that anymore because:

America is like that still because:

Henry George would most likely favor:

a. Laissez-faire economics

b. A degree of government regulation

c. Libertarianism

is to help student teachers and newly qualified teachers to make a start on learning how to become competent teachers of English. Despite the emphasis given in training courses to the teaching of English, newly qualified teachers often feel underprepared for it and frequently mention their concerns about this. These concerns can be partly explained by a general lack of confidence in this key area and partly by widespread media and political criticism of the teaching of literacy. It is also because it is often difficult for a student to make the connection between observation of key teaching strategies and his or her own personal practice.

The Americans McDougal-Littell Publishing Staff, 2002-03-04. American Literature-Student James P. Stobaugh, 2012-11-01. Enjoy beloved classics while developing vocabulary, reading, and critical thinking skills. Each literature book in the series is a one-year course. Each chapter has five lessons with daily concept-building exercises, warm-up questions, and guided readings. Easy to use with suggested reading schedules and daily calendar. Equips students to think critically about philosophy and trends in culture and articulate their views through writing. A well-crafted presentation of whole book or whole work selections from the major genres of classic literature: prose, poetry, and drama. Each course has 34 chapters representing 34 weeks of study with an overview of narrative background material on the writers, their historical settings, and worldview. The rich curriculum's content is infused with critical thinking skills, and an easy-to-use teacher's guide outlines student objectives with each chapter, providing the answers to the assignments and weekly exercises. The final lesson of the week includes both the exam covering insights on the week's chapter as well as essays developed through the course of that week's study, chosen by the educator and student to personalize the coursework for the individual learner.
