What happened to gold deposits in the government treasury around 1893?

a. He didn't give up hope

b. He became a radical

Gold has always been more expensive than silver. Today, if you buy a U.S. Silver Eagle (a coin that is one ounce of silver) it will cost you $36. If you buy a U.S. Gold Eagle, however, which is one ounce of gold, it will cost you $3,500. Same weight, but one is around 95 times more expensive than the other. Why were people upset at the Coinage Act of 1873? Because the Constitution says a dollar must be made of silver. It could be made of gold too, but at a fixed rate to silver (a 1 oz. gold coin was worth 20 silver dollars until 1933, when President FDR ended the gold standard and confiscated everyone's gold coins so he could print more dollars). Thus, according to the Constitution and the Coinage Act of 1792, a dollar is made of silver, and you could exchange 20 silver dollars for an ounce of gold, which was also legal money. In 1893, who did the government turn to for a loan in gold (that taxpayers would eventually have to pay off)?

a. Carnegie

b. Rockefeller

c. Morgan

d. Debs
