INSTRUCTIONS TO THE OPERATOR

Instructions for operating the Kango Rotary Hammer Type 950

Before making any attempt to connect the hammer to an electric circuit, please read these instructions carefully

SUPPLY VOLTAGE AND CURRENT

Check the electrical rating on the nameplate on the rear panel of the hammer.

The circuit should be fused at a value not less than that given for the rated current on the nameplate of the motor. The fusing of the line must be checked out by an experienced electrician who will decide on the correct fuse to use in case of any other loading on the circuit.

CONNECTING UP

The hammer is factory equipped with a 2 wire cable in line. In any operation in which it is connected to a circuit with one ground and one neutral connection it is essential that one should not be connected.

Fit the 2 pin plug on the hammer lead into the 2 pin outlet on the electric outlet (not supplied). The bare end of the electric lead should then be fixed with a plug provided for the safety lock. It is a 2 pin plug it must go to the end of the electric lead and connections must be made in the right way.

The 2 pin plug on the hammer lead is factory primarily designed for use with the optional 15 or 20 Hz universal lead, which can be obtained from us as a design option.

When the 15 or 20 Hz lead is used the ground of the lead should be connected to the terminal plug in form of weatherproof plug. The 15 or 20 Hz universal lead may be connected to either weather resistant lead or bare copper lead.

LABORATION

All new hammers are delivered packed with ground lead leads for use.

The quantity of the ground in the hammer is adequate for 200 volts and the hammer should then be insulated by terminals, a Kango Guard or an authorized Kango agent for servicing.

It is found that leads are running dry to the rear of the hammer. A little oil or grease should be applied to the lead at intervals when taken from this, as other lubrication is required between 200 hour service.
