The Structure of Human Abilities (Psychology Revivals)

Philip E. Vernon, 2014-01-27 First published in 1950 this revised edition of The Structure of Human Abilities was published in 1961 but remained largely unchanged from the original save for an additional supplement on the developments in factorial work on human abilities from 1950-1959. Much research had been carried out during the years leading up to publication in England and America into mental abilities and modern methods of statistical treatment especially factor analysis had been increasingly used. It was felt that the mass of diverse material was apt to confuse the student of psychology of the time especially as the results of such research were often apparently conflicting. Professor Vernon one of the leading experts in this branch of psychology sifted the material and attempted to provide a consistent picture of our mental structure. Office

Perspective Rita Asplund, 2013-11-22 The past few decades have seen a revolutionary increase in interest in the economic role of education and training at the societal business and individual levels. This is mainly due to the strong post-war growth in industrialized economies which has been driven by rapid technological progress and far-reaching structural change and in the end has resulted in increasingly skill-intensive production and growing demand for more educated labour. Today it is frequently argued that with the increasing importance of the role of know-how the workforce has become the most important single input in the production process. Simultaneously the dramatic increase in the availability of large micro-level databases has opened enormous possibilities to study the economic role of human capital creation also empirically. The economic perspective of human capital accumulation is however of utmost importance also in times of deep economic recession. Periods of economic slowdown and rapidly increasing unemployment tend to increase the demand for advanced education and training in particular. This brings up in turn questions regarding overeducation and satisfying both private and social returns on investments in human capital. Tests and Interest Questionnaires in the Guidance of High School Boys Percival Mallon Symonds, 1930
