Forensic Mental Health Assessment Kirk Heilbrun, Geoffrey Marczyk, David DeMatteo, 2002-04-11 Forensic mental health assessments are evaluations conducted by individuals from different disciplines on a variety of questions in civil criminal and family law A growing number of mental health professionals including psychologists psychiatrists and social workers are being called upon to assess everything from an individual's competence to stand trial to the risk or threat of future violence and asked to weigh in on cases ranging from murder and assault to malpractice and child custody General principles have emerged to guide professionals conducting forensic mental health assessment Forensic Mental Health Assessment A Casebook illustrates those principles using relevant real world case material Built around actual case reports from expert forensic psychologists and psychiatrists the volume probes a broad range of legal questions through the detailed examination of more than 40 cases Topics include Miranda rights waiver competence to act as one's own attorney competence to stand trial juvenile commitment sanity at the time of the offense child custody termination of parental rights guardianship and malpractice This is the first casebook focusing specifically on forensic assessment It contains cases from a broad range of civil criminal and family legal questions described in case reports contributed by expert forensic psychologists and psychiatrists It will be useful for anyone involved in assessments for the courts and attorneys including psychologists psychiatrists social workers and attorneys

Retrofitting the Built Environment Taofeeq Ibn-Mohammed, 2017-05-11 The building sector exerts huge pressure on the built and natural environment and despite significant efforts to minimise the consequences the International Energy Agency submitted that by 2050 emissions related to buildings could double However in the building sector significant improvement in energy use and reduction in greenhouse gas emissions can be achieved given the potential to do this at no cost using new technology Since most buildings that exist now will still exist in 2050 the greatest energy savings can be made through refurbishment In the future legislation on carbon usage as well as innovative technologies and knowledge will trigger aggressive emission reductions in buildings and this will compel installers of retrofit options to consider embodied emissions in order to achieve the best value retrofit plan This book in response to the growing environmental importance of retrofit options describes the development of a powerful decision support system detailing both theoretical and practical insights for the evaluation of environmentally and economically optimal retrofit options for non domestic buildings The chapters within it discuss engineering energy environment and economics in the context of climate change and sustainability while a methodological framework of a decision support system is used to analyse a range of building energy retrofit options The theoretical developments provided in this book can be transferred to other industries beyond the built environment and will be useful to researchers energy systems engineers architects building energy managers supply chain and procurement managers sustainability managers and policy makers

Disparity of Service Nicole C. Greely, 2023-04-11 This qualitative study examines the effects of the reduction in available funds resulting from the current economic situation on students with disabilities in postsecondary education There is little evidence of a study of this nature conducted in the United States which makes such a study important at the present time Twenty students with one or more disabilities attending postsecondary institutions including community colleges a public university and a private university were interviewed with regard to their navigation of postsecondary education during difficult economic times I found that despite reductions in Disabled Student Services DSS the majority of respondents believed they would be able to graduate at their expected date of completion Although I found that a majority of respondents did not notice reductions in DSS some pointed out areas where services had been reduced I found that a significant portion of the research participants were satisfied with DSS While my findings did not support the original hypothesis students with disabilities still experienced a level of frustration that may adversely affect their educational and professional goals and or quality of life One conclusion that I was able to draw from this data is that students are not always aware of reduced services unless they are directly affected by them or until such reductions are brought to their attention Another conclusion I drew from the research is that despite increased adversity at the level of postsecondary education my respondents were still able to overcome their challenges and proceed towards their educational goals
