

Lesson 1.18

Shakespeare's Original Text	Shakespeare	Modern or College Edition
Shall I compare thee to a summer's day?            Thou art more lovely and more temperate:            Rough winds do shake the darling buds of May,            And summer's lease hath all too short a date;            Sometime too hot the eye of heaven shines,            And often is his gold complexion dimmed,            And every fair from fair sometime declines,            By chance or nature's changing course untrimm'd,            But thy eternal summer shall not fade,            Nor lose possession of that fair thou ow'st,            Nor shall death brag thou wander'st in his shade,            When in eternal lines to time thou grow'st:            So long as men can breathe or eyes can see,            So long lives this, and this gives life to thee.		temperate = milder            lease = time            dimmed = blocked by clouds            in his shade = in the underworld

Directions: Answer the following questions after reading the sonnet.

3. How is the problem elaborated in the second quatrain? What is problematic about summer?
4. What is the "volta"? What does the speaker propose as the solution to the problem in the third quatrain?
