1. What factor should be considered when designing a new science solution?
- Researching only
 - Ignoring environmental issues
 - Using simulations
 - Reading papers
2. What should you do if encountering one part of a science-based problem is difficult?
- Ignore the hard problem
 - Break the task into smaller parts
 - Stop the problem completely
 - Plan the solution without thinking
3. What is one of a new problem that science can help solve?
- Waste management in the community
 - Space exploration
 - Climate change
 - Plastic pollution
4. How does documenting a solution help in the scientific process?
- Shows the problem was solved
 - Provides evidence from using the idea
 - Helps others understand and build on it
 - Shows unnecessary steps
5. What should be done if a scientific solution is complex?
- Modify or abandon it for safety
 - Use it anyway

Mechanical Waves: Properties & Models

Science-based communities solve problems by applying knowledge and innovative thinking. Often based on shared values, such as safety, quality of work, management, using resources, or means of progress, solutions can have a positive impact. Understanding the problem fully, including its causes and effects, is the first step in finding an effective solution.

Designing solutions requires considering various constraints, such as budget, time, and resources. Simulations, including some form of a model, might reduce dangerous situations, so it is important to weigh these models carefully. For example, creating a model for a roller coaster may affect its cost and ease of use, which influences the effectiveness of the solution.

After designing a solution, documenting how it works, what companies affected it, and any consequences made helps others learn and possibly improve on the idea. Communication during the design process, and reflecting on the complexity of the solution, are essential steps. This process involves using scientific inquiry, engineering practices, decision-making, and safety considerations.

1. Mark the best answer for each question.

1. What is one of the most important steps when designing a solution to solve a hard problem?
- Designing a solution completely
 - Using the most expensive materials
 - Ignoring safety concerns
 - Understanding the problem fully
2. What does documenting a solution in a solution help with?
- Using the resources of the solution
 - Showing how to solve the problem
 - Communicating how the solution was made
 - Showing the problem was solved
3. Which is an example of a simulation?
- Using models or resources
 - Testing without any tools
 - Understanding how a system works
 - Using materials that can be used

2. Mark if the statement is true (T) or false (F).

1. There are no consequences made when one has a solution.
2. When designing a solution, it is important to consider the safety of the solution.
3. When designing a solution, it is important to consider the cost of the solution.
4. When designing a solution, it is important to consider the time of the solution.
5. When designing a solution, it is important to consider the resources of the solution.

Answer for each question.

Understand a problem fully before designing a solution?

and why must they be considered in designing a solution?

What will that might happen when creating a solution that

How does documenting scientific solutions in communities?

Which are models of a solution in scientific problem-solving?
