

Human Trafficking

I was touched when I came across this journal article published by the Angola Press titled "Police Present Three Namibians Accused of Child Trafficking." It stunned me to learn that human trafficking is still a major problem around the world today. According to this article published recently, the police caught three human smugglers with five children who were all minors. These children were supposed to be caring for the smugglers' livestock.

Human smuggling is gradually becoming a business in our societies today as children and women have become the target for smugglers in order to provide forced labor, sexual, and domestic services. In my point of view, it is time for governments to intervene to stop this nasty act.

Firstly, the Congressional Research Service (CRS) reports on human trafficking titled "Trafficking in the United States" outlined labor as the main cause of human smuggling. The chief targets, who are often children and women, are required to offer forced and free labor in agriculture, hotel services, strip club dancing; the list is long (par.1). Though some people think that only foreign victims are vulnerable to human traffickers, this article stated that United States citizens also take part in human trafficking. However, most of the victims are often noncitizens whose services are highly required in labor campgrounds (par.2).

Secondly, this report pointed to sexual exploitation as another cause of human trafficking acts. Though there are a great number of commercial sex workers in the United States, the Trafficking Victims Protection Act (TVPA) of 2000 states that any act of commercial sex involving a child under the age of 18, either by force or voluntary for any purpose such as money making, is classified as Domestic Minor Sex Trafficking, and the offender must be brought to justice (par.5); however, smugglers violate this law by vigorously using under age children in these acts for their personal benefits. According to this report "...the Department of Justice (DOJ) estimated that there were between 14,500 and 17,500 victims trafficked into the United States each year" (par.7).
