development and applications The main topics covered are Information and Knowledge Management Organizational Models and Information Systems Software and Systems Modeling Software Systems Architectures Applications and Tools Multimedia Systems and Applications Computer Networks Mobility and Pervasive Systems Intelligent and Decision Support Systems Big Data Analytics and Applications Human Computer Interaction Health Informatics Information Technologies in Education Information Technologies in Radiocommunications The Integration of the Humanities and Arts with Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine in Higher Education National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Policy and Global Affairs, Board on Higher Education and Workforce, Committee on Integrating Higher Education in the Arts, Humanities, Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, 2018-06-21 In the United States broad study in an array of different disciplines arts humanities science mathematics engineering as well as an in depth study within a special area of interest have been defining characteristics of a higher education But over time in depth study in a major discipline has come to dominate the curricula at many institutions This evolution of the curriculum has been driven in part by increasing specialization in the academic disciplines There is little doubt that disciplinary specialization has helped produce many of the achievements of the past century Researchers in all academic disciplines have been able to delve more deeply into their areas of expertise grappling with ever more specialized and fundamental problems Yet today many leaders scholars parents and students are asking whether higher education has moved too far from its integrative tradition towards an approach heavily rooted in disciplinary silos These silos represent what many see as an artificial separation of academic disciplines This study reflects a growing concern that the approach to higher education that favors disciplinary specialization is poorly calibrated to the challenges and opportunities of our time The Integration of the Humanities and Arts with Sciences Engineering and Medicine in Higher Education examines the evidence behind the assertion that educational programs that mutually integrate learning experiences in the humanities and arts with science technology engineering mathematics and medicine STEM lead to improved educational and career outcomes for undergraduate and graduate students It explores evidence regarding the value of integrating more STEM curricula and labs into the academic programs of students majoring in the humanities and arts and evidence regarding the value of integrating curricula and experiences in the arts and humanities into college and university STEM education programs Getting Evidence into Education Stephen Gorard, 2020-03-31 Worldwide there has been considerable progress in the quality of research evidence generated for use in education but not the equivalent growth in knowledge of how best to get this evidence into actual use Yet with far reaching implications all of education is damaged when persuasive but poor quality evidence has widespread influence or good research lies unused Focused on the work of the Durham University Evidence Centre for Education Getting Evidence into Education addresses this problem examining what can be done to improve the take up of suitable research evidence and inform the public service of education Containing a variety of case studies from evidence based policies for early childhood education in Brazil to the use of evidence on contextualized admissions to Scottish universities the volume explores a variety of different ways to approach the problem addressing the questions What is the existing evidence on different approaches to getting research evidence into use What are the factors which influence the uptake of high quality research evidence by policy or practice Which are the most effective pathways for evidence into use in particular contexts Considering both the practical and ethical implications the book builds towards key recommendations for the research community practitioner bodies and policy makers and advisors directing them on how to communicate better with each other for the benefit of everyone

Research for Educational Change

Jill Adler, Anna Sfard, 2016-06-17 Research for Educational Change presents ways in which educational research can fulfil its commitments to educational practice Focussing its discussion within the context of mathematics education it argues that while research generated insights can have beneficial effects on learning and teaching the question of how these effects are to be generated and sustained is far from evident The question of how to turn research into educational improvement is discussed here in the context of learning and teaching hindered by poverty and social injustice In the first part of the book four teams of researchers use different methodologies while analysing the same corpus of data collected in a South African mathematics classroom In the second part each of these teams makes a specific proposal about what can be done and how so that its research generated insights have a tangible beneficial impact on what is happening in mathematical classrooms Combining two discourses that of researchers speaking to one another and that of researchers communicating their insights to those responsible for educational practice the book deals with the perennial question of communication between those who study educational processes and those who are directly responsible for teacher education educational research and classroom practices This book will be key reading for postgraduates researchers and academics in education and particularly in the areas of mathematics education education research teacher education and classroom practice It will also appeal to teacher educators
