

CS 497 - Senior Project Phase II Final Report Guidelines

The final report is a formal communication that both fulfills a contract obligation and tells a story. Since the final report is, in some cases, the "product" of the project effort, and in all cases the official record of that effort, it should be prepared carefully. It must be complete enough to account for all of the essential information pertaining to your project, so that you or anyone else could reconstruct and understand what has been done. It also must be accurate; reality must not be warped either by inflation or by depreciation. Mistakes or failures should be explained, but not covered up. Tell it like it was.

Report content will vary as widely as do types of project activities; some will be mostly data or code, others will be mostly words. You may have tables and graphs, or you may have none. Do whatever you need to do to tell a story that is understandable, complete, and accurate.

Final reports will be "published" in the UE EECS Journal of Senior Projects. CD-ROM copies will be provided to all senior project students.

Common Report Format

The sections of a common report format are presented below.

Title Page

The title page should indicate the name of the project, the project engineer(s), the sponsor, the project advisor, the major program, the University, and the date.

Acknowledgments

Give credit for any help you received in this section. This includes significant advice, data, equipment, labor, and so forth. This is not a book or a dissertation, so do not thank your spouse or special friend for their great patience, tolerance, and understanding. Dedications are similarly out of place.

Abstract

An abstract is a one-paragraph summary of the report.

Introduction (or Summary)

Present a quick rundown of the entire design process: the motivation, problem definition, approach, and results. By giving the reader a good, overall "big picture," you will vastly simplify their task of reading and understanding all that follows.

Statement of Problem (or Background)

Give a more detailed statement of the problem as it was presented and as it has evolved to the state to be considered in the design process. Include any technical discussions that help bring the problem into focus.
