Mechanical Waves: Properties & Models

Science-based communities solve problems by applying knowledge and innovative thinking. Often based on shared values, such as safety, quality of results management, using scientific methods or rigorous solutions can have a positive impact. Understanding the problem fully, including its causes and effects, is the first step in finding an effective solution.

Designing solutions requires considering various constraints, such as budget, time, and resources. Simulations, including some form of a solution model, reduce design and development, so it is important to weigh these models carefully. For example, creating models for a new car may affect its cost and ease of use, which influences the effectiveness of the solution.

After designing a solution, documenting how it works, what companies affected it, and any consequences made helps others learn and possibly improve on the idea. Communication during the design process, and reflecting on the complexity of the solution are essential steps. This process involves using scientific inquiry, including developing testable questions, making and testing observations, and using mathematical tools.

81. Mark the best answer for each question.

1. What is the first important step when designing a solution to solve a hard problem?
- Designing a solution completely
 - Using the most expensive materials
 - Ignoring safety concerns
 - Understanding the problem fully
2. What does documenting a solution help in the scientific process?
- Showing the problem was solved
 - Providing evidence from using the idea
 - Helping others understand and build on it

3. Which is an example of a scientific process?
- Working without any tools
 - Understanding how a problem was solved
 - Use notes on resources
 - Choosing materials that can be reused

82. Mark if the statement is true (T) or false (F).

1. True (T) or false (F) statements made when one has been given a problem to solve. When searching for a solution, one may have others' preferences in mind. One may have a preference for a particular design or material. One may have a preference for a particular design or material. One may have a preference for a particular design or material. One may have a preference for a particular design or material.

Answer for each question.
