

Indirect Proof:

So far, we have used direct proofs to prove statements. A less common method used in the indirect proof, the indirect proof is a proof in which you assume the conclusion is false and use deduction reasoning to find an contradiction, thereby proving the conclusion of the theorem true.

Suppose you told the person "It is cold outside."

You can begin by assuming the opposite of what you want to prove, "It is not cold outside."

If it were not cold, then that glass would not be covered with steam, the kids likely would not have been their bodies, and their would not wear the sweaters, that their is snow on the ground, the kids have been told their bodies, and that does make the windows. All these facts separation when we know for the fact about what happens when it is not cold outside. Therefore, we know something that is a cold outside.

Indirect reasoning may also be used when a person either asks a subject where he was when a crime was committed, if the person was at a branch today at the time, the system will now indirect reasoning to prove his client's innocence. The system will begin by assuming that the defendant committed the wrongdoing. Then, he will prove that the defendant was at a branch's house when the crime occurred. Since he could not have been in his place at home, he could not be guilty. Therefore, direct and indirect reasoning is making important contributions the scientific method of an illness.

Remember these steps when using an indirect proof:

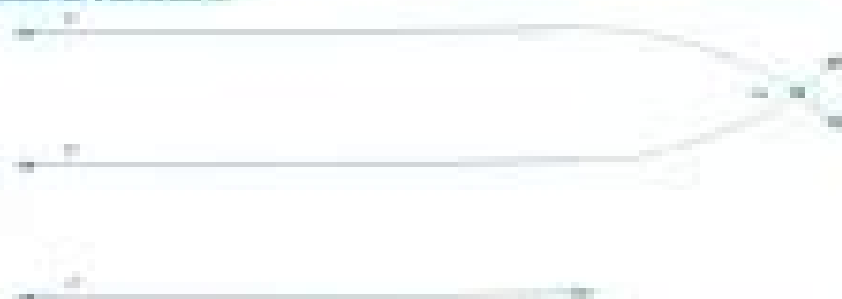

1. Assume the conclusion is false.
2. Use deductive reasoning to find a contradiction.
3. Prove the conclusion of the theorem true.

Theorem 41: If two lines are parallel to the same line, then they are parallel to each other.

Follow the reasoning of the indirect proof of Theorem 41.

Given: $a \parallel b$ and $b \parallel c$.

Prove: $a \parallel c$.

Proof:

Statements	Reasons
1. $a \parallel b$ and $b \parallel c$	1. Given
2. Assume that a is not parallel to line c .	2. Assumption
3. Lines a and c intersect at point A .	3. Two lines in a plane must either intersect or are $\parallel$, $q \cdot 13$
4. Thus, the assumption that line a is not parallel to line c is false.	4. Direct Proof (CP, 11)
5. $a \parallel c$	5. Contradiction
