Jsc Board Science Question 2014

Jesper Manniche, Bjornar Saether

Jsc Board Science Question 2014:

Achieving Science with CubeSats National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Space Studies Board, Committee on Achieving Science Goals with CubeSats, 2016-11-06 Space based observations have transformed our understanding of Earth its environment the solar system and the universe at large During past decades driven by increasingly advanced science questions space observatories have become more sophisticated and more complex with costs often growing to billions of dollars Although these kinds of ever more sophisticated missions will continue into the future small satellites ranging in mass between 500 kg to 0.1 kg are gaining momentum as an additional means to address targeted science questions in a rapid and possibly more affordable manner Within the category of small satellites CubeSats have emerged as a space platform defined in terms of 10 cm x 10 cm x 10 cm sized cubic units of approximately 1.3 kg each called U.S. Historically CubeSats were developed as training projects to expose students to the challenges of real world engineering practices and system design Yet their use has rapidly spread within academia industry and government agencies both nationally and internationally In particular CubeSats have caught the attention of parts of the U.S. space science community which sees this platform despite its inherent constraints as a way to affordably access space and perform unique measurements of scientific value The first science results from such CubeSats have only recently become available however questions remain regarding the scientific potential and technological promise of CubeSats in the future Achieving Science with CubeSats reviews the current state of the scientific potential and technological promise of CubeSats This report focuses on the platform's promise to obtain high priority science data as defined in recent decadal surveys in astronomy and astrophysics Earth science and applications from space planetary science and solar and space physics heliophysics the science priorities identified in the 2014 NASA Science Plan and the potential for CubeSats to advance biology and microgravity research It provides a list of sample science goals for CubeSats many of which address targeted science often in coordination with other spacecraft or use sacrificial or high risk orbits that lead to the demise of the satellite after critical data have been collected Other goals relate to the use of CubeSats as constellations or swarms deploying tens to hundreds of CubeSats that function as one distributed array of measurements

Nordic Food Transitions Jesper Manniche, Bjornar Saether, 2018-12-07 The ambition of the book is to investigate a possible transition in the markets for food in the Nordic countries Six chapters from various disciplinary traditions study change and innovation within the food sectors in Denmark Sweden and Norway while an introductory chapter discusses the findings of these analyses Specialty food has established a strong position within product categories such as craft beer in Denmark and organic food in Sweden but has failed to do so in others The emergence of markets for specialty foods have been promoted by top down policy initiatives and bottom up entrepreneurial efforts Far from providing the only relevant platform for food transition and innovation the New Nordic Food manifesto has helped creating a territorialized action space for networks of food producers and distributors promoting diversity in local food and rural development Some of the specialty food networks have succeeded in re scaling their operations from a local to a national market Today even large retailers and food processing companies have to pay notice to the ongoing changes among consumers There is however a paradoxical constraint in a transition towards specialty food A large scale transition would imply that producers and consumers abandon precisely what constitute them their exclusiveness The chapters were originally published in a special issue of European Planning Studies Strategic Investments in Instrumentation and Facilities for Extraterrestrial Sample Curation and Analysis National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Space Studies Board, Committee on Extraterrestrial Sample Analysis Facilities, 2019-04-29 The United States possesses a treasure trove of extraterrestrial samples that were returned to Earth via space missions over the past four decades Analyses of these previously returned samples have led to major breakthroughs in the understanding of the age composition and origin of the solar system Having the instrumentation facilities and qualified personnel to undertake analyses of returned samples especially from missions that take up to a decade or longer from launch to return is thus of paramount importance if the National Aeronautics and Space Administration NASA is to capitalize fully on the investment made in these missions and to achieve the full scientific impact afforded by these extraordinary samples Planetary science may be entering a new golden era of extraterrestrial sample return now is the time to assess how prepared the scientific community is to take advantage of these opportunities Strategic Investments in Instrumentation and Facilities for Extraterrestrial Sample Curation and Analysis assesses the current capabilities within the planetary science community for sample return analyses and curation and what capabilities are currently missing that will be needed for future sample return missions This report evaluates whether current laboratory support infrastructure and NASA s investment strategy is adequate to meet these analytical challenges and advises how the community can keep abreast of evolving and new techniques in order to stay at the forefront of extraterrestrial sample analysis Yearbook of International Organizations 2013-2014 (Volumes 1A-1B) Union of International Associations, 2013-06-21 Volume 1 A and B covers international organizations throughout the world comprising their aims activities and events Psychology and Human Performance in Space Programs Lauren Blackwell Landon, Kelley J. Slack, Eduardo Salas, 2020-10-08 In Psychology and Human Performance in Space Programs Research at the Frontier leading space researchers from multiple fields of expertise summarize the recent growth of knowledge the resulting tools and techniques and the research still needed to protect humans in space Making use of cutting edge research and development related to composing training and supporting astronaut crews who will live and work together for future missions to Mars this book examines the current practices of leaders in the field both at NASA and in academia Presenting astronaut data alongside data from analogous extreme environments such as mission simulation habitats this volume helpfully contrasts and compares to examine the lessons that can be learned from other approaches Using the context of current International Space

Station missions the book discusses the influence of human factors and physiological health on individual and team job performance and social cohesion With an overview of the physical and psychological hazards of space and the challenges posed by conducting space related applied psychology research this volume uses the context of a long duration Mars mission as a lens through which to discuss adaptation and resilience technical and team training technological advances related to working and living in space and human interaction with onboard systems Additionally the book includes an essay from retired astronaut Clay Anderson on his experiences in space and thoughts on future missions to the moon and Mars This first of two volumes will be of interest to professionals in the field of human factors and psychology at work as well as academics examining human performance in extreme environments and aerospace

Calculated Risk George Leopold,2016

Unlike other American astronauts Virgil I Gus Grissom never had the chance to publish his memoirs save for an account of his role in the Gemini program before the tragic launch pad fire on January 27 1967 which took his life and those of Edward White and Roger Chaffee The international prestige of winning the Moon Race cannot be understated and Grissom played a pivotal and enduring role in securing that legacy for the United States Indeed Grissom was first and foremost a Cold Warrior a member of the first group of Mercury astronauts whose goal it was to beat the Soviet Union to the moon Drawing on extensive interviews with fellow astronauts NASA engineers family members and friends of Gus Grissom George Leopold delivers a comprehensive survey of Grissom s life that places his career in the context of the Cold War and the history of human spaceflight

Calculated Risk The Supersonic Life and Times of Gus Grissom adds significantly to our understanding of that tumultuous period in American history Publisher
