Sociopolitics of Migrant Death and Repatriation Krista E. Latham, Alyson J. O'Daniel, 2017-10-03 As scholars have by now long contended global neoliberalism and the violence associated with state restructuring provide key frameworks for understanding flows of people across national boundaries and eventually into the treacherous terrains of the United States borderlands The proposed volume builds on this tradition of situating migration and migrant death within broad systems level frameworks of analysis but contends that there is another perhaps somewhat less tidy but no less important sociopolitical story to be told here Through examination of how forensic scientists define navigate and enact their work at the frontiers of US policy and economics this book joins a robust body of literature dedicated to bridging social theory with bioarchaeological applications to modern day problems This volume is based on deeply and critically reflective analyses submitted by individual scholars wherein they navigate and position themselves as social actors embedded within and perhaps partially constituted by relations of power cultural ideologies and the social structures characterizing this moment in history Each contribution addresses a different variation on themes of power relations production of knowledge and reflexivity in practice In sum however the chapters of this book trace relationships between institutions entities and individuals comprising the landscapes of migrant death and repatriation and considers their articulation with sociopolitical dynamics of the neoliberal state Congressional Record United States.
